Plans for Development Of 334 Township Acres Presented to Residents

The Planning Board and neighbors in the northwest corner of the Township got their first official look last week at a development proposal for what may be the last large undeveloped tract in Princeton.

Plans for three different ways of developing 334 acres on either side of Drakes Corner Road were presented informally for concept review at the Planning Board's regular meeting last Wednesday night. The property is bounded by Cherry Valley Road on the north, Province Line Road to the west and the DeMenil tract and Woodfield Reservation to the south. A gift to Princeton University by the late Dean Mathey and the subject of litigation after the area was down-zoned in keeping with 1980 Master Plan recommendations, it was purchased last year by a Houston, Texas, partnership for $3.3 million.

Water Company to Close Princeton's Artesian Well

The days are numbered for Princeton residents who have been drawing their drinking water from the well at the Elizabethtown Water Company installation off West Drive.

The Water Company intends to close its water treatment plant here by the end of 1986. After that time, according to Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser, the company will maintain only a small storage facility for small equipment that might be needed to maintain water lines in the area. Because it will be withdrawing personnel as well, the company has informed Township Committee it will no longer operate the pump that draws the water continually from the underground well. Nor does it wish to perform the required water quality tests. assume responsibility for

Borough Supports Downtown Garage; Some Citizen Opposition Is Anticipated

Radically different points of view about the Borough garage proposed for the metered lot at Tulane and Spring Streets were expected to be heard at the Borough Council meeting scheduled for this past Tuesday night.

Mercer County Improvement Agency (MCIA) Director Arthur Julian was expected to lead off the debate by presenting the results of the garage feasibility study done by the MCIA at the request of Mayor and Council.

Mayor Barbara Sigmund has stressed that the Council supports the idea of a downtown parking garage, although there has not been a public discussion of the issue. At question at this meeting, according to the mayor, will be whether to finance the garage through the MCIA or directly through the Borough's bonding authority.

However, citizen opposition is expected. Ann McGoldrick, 25 Vandeventer Street, planned to explain her objections to the garage. "There will be other people there too," she said, referring to opponents of the garage who live in the Vandeventer-Madison-Park Place area.

It is also expected that some representatives of the business community, which is generally in favor of a downtown garage, will be present. A study done last year by the Parking Committee of the Borough Economic Development Commission is said to support construction of a downtown garage. The study has never been made public.

The garage favored by Mayor and Council — one of three outlined in the MCIA report — would cost about three million dollars and contain 306 spaces. It would include 7,500 square feet of street-level retail space to rent at $20 a square foot.

The building itself would rise five levels and be a prefabricated concrete slab garage similar to those at Palmer Square and Princeton Hospital.

The facility would be used only for all-day employee parking. The mayor said the cooperation of the business community would be necessary through its making the use of the garage a condition of employment. Estimated monthly cost to five-day-a-week parkers would be about $49. This, according to the mayor, compares with the $70 for five-day-a-week parking charged by Collins. There would be no attendant on duty in the Borough garage.

Interviewed a few hours before the Council meeting, Mrs. McGoldrick said that one of the things that makes Princeton a special place are its downtown residents. "Right around us is a wonderful little neighborhood, and that neighborhood is clearly threatened by the amount of traffic with us all the time.

"Once there is a garage in the Tulane/Spring area, where streets are narrow, and especially one for all-day parkers, 250 to 300 cars disgorging at the same time will have a severe impact on a neighborhood that already has a traffic problem, she said."

She added that the Borough has had a stated commitment to downtown residents, and that the Palmer Square redevelopment would not have been approved without its strong residential component.

She said, too, that there was a bigger issue than her neighborhood. "and that is the kind of community we will have. Will we become 33rd Street in part of Route 1 City?" she asked. "And the irony is that the Borough is suing its neighbors while unbelievable development is going on downtown."

Five Percent Increase In School Tax Possible

The operating expense portion of the 1986-87 Princeton Regional School Budget — by far the largest chunk — is expected to be $15,426,337. Of this, $13,400,000 must be raised through municipal taxes. The balance comes largely from the state and federal government.

The municipal contributions translate to an anticipated five percent increase in the school tax — from $1.10 per hundred dollars of assessed valuation last year in the Borough, to $1.16. And from the $1.16 in the Township to $1.22.

These figures are preliminary. It is the feeling of the board secretary that they will not go up and may well come down.

School Budget

The budget meets the 6.3 percent state cap; there will be no request for a cap increase.

The School Board approved the preliminary budget last week. It now goes to the state for review and is then returned to the board for final reworking and approval.

The additional monies will be used largely to fund an increase in staff salaries. This has been figured at five percent in the budget. However, the actual increase will be decided through contract negotiations, which are currently underway.

A rise in the cost of insurance and utilities is another factor in the increase.

The budget will be voted on in a school board election scheduled for April 1. In addition to the operating expense portion, voters will also decide whether to approve a $100,000 capital budget figure.

The actual capital budget is twice that, but the balance will come out of reserves. Reserves have also been used to fund
$600,000 of the operating budget and a third of the million dollar debt service budget.

No new monies have been allotted for programs.
However, there will be a shifting about of funds to finance those new programs that receive final approval.

Some of the ideas currently being evaluated for inclusion in the 1986-87 school year are efforts to identify and help at-risk children at the pre-school level;
programs for at-risk students in middle and high school; an extension in the high school
CRAW program to tenth grade;
the purchase of additional non-fiction books for the elementary school libraries; the purchase of new uniforms in the middle school and high school; and the expansion of the middle school art program.

This year's Princeton Regional School enrollment of 2,334 students is expected to drop to 2,249 next year. Although the budget calls for the elimination of five teachers in the middle school, it also holds three contingency positions in the event of higher-than-anticipated enrollment.

Garage

Mrs. McGoldrick also wondered whether merchants, in their desire to capitalize on what is happening on Route 1, will have the determining say in the Borough's future.

"The garage would be of direct benefit to merchants with very little to be gained by residents, except highly expanded traffic problems," she said.

She noted that her neighborhood was very supportive of a downtown garage when senior housing was proposed,
but opposed an 800-car downtown garage when it was considered about seven years ago.

According to Mayor Sigmund, once the Council decides whether to use MCIA or the Borough's own general obligation bonding mechanism, an ordinance on the garage can be introduced. "Between the first and second readings of the ordinance, we will endeavor to see if there is real interest on the part of the business community," she said.

"We can't go forward without the business community committing themselves to this by taking a certain number of spaces."

liability and maintain the roadway.

Were Princeton Township to assume responsibility and keep the water flowing for the benefit of the many residents who use it, it would have to perform these water quality tests, said to cost $4,000 a year, and assume liability and road maintenance costs as well.
Mayor Winthrop Pike has asked
Township Administrator
James Pascale to look into the feasibility.

According to Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser, the well water is lightly chlorinated but not is not fluoridated, as is the water provided through the tap by the Elizabethtown Water Company.

Many of the residents who go to the well week after week to fill plastic jugs, and steadfastly refuse to drink water out of the tap, have already protested the proposed closing. For them and for others, it represents yet another change in Princeton as they have known it and expected it to continue.

Ask Arches, 'Amenities' For Harrison St. Bridge

Township Committee found itself attempting to juggle design criteria for the Harrison Street Bridge replacement in a way that would satisfy the University's crew race requirements and the Planning Board's aesthetic sensibilities.

Committee had been asked by the N.J. Department of Transportation to endorse by formal resolution one of the four schemes for the bridge that were shown to the public December 19. Seth Barton, district engineer, traffic and local road design, with the N.J. Department of Transportation, also warned Committee by letter that construction costs over and above those presented December 19 would be "non-participatory by the federal government." Committee took this language to mean that any incremental costs incurred because of design elements requested by the Township would not be paid for by the federal government, and might even have to be borne by the Township.

Estimates for the four schemes shown in December ranged from $2.1 million to $2.6 million. The federal government is set to pay 80 percent, the state 16 percent and the county four percent. Planning Director, Duggan Kimball, told Committee he had scheduled a meeting this Wednesday with federal DOT representatives to discuss what added design elements would do to this cost sharing ratio and whether, as implied in the N.J. DOT letter, the Township would have to bear any incremental construction costs.

Members of the Planning Board and Township Committee, the Township Engineer, George Olexa (representing the University), and Mr. Kimball met with Mr. Barton last week to discuss modifications to what Planning Board Vice Chair Margen Penick has described as "a flat piece of pavement on sticks." Reporting to the Planning Board two days later, Mrs. Penick said the Princeton officials had spent "a long time trying to find ways of ameliorating that design."

The result was a Planning Board resolution which called for a steel bridge with "individual articulated arches"; a clearance of 10 feet from the surface of the water to the top of the arches; and "lighter and lower parapet walls reducing the mass of the walls and thus permitting the design of decorative railings" on top.

Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser also drafted a resolution endorsing Scheme 3 proposed by the DOT but with certain design features, such as individual structural arches for each span. Committee's task Monday was to meld the two resolutions. In addition, Mr. Olexa made a further request from the University specifying 85 feet between piers and 75 feet of the 10-foot clearance, thus creating a rectangle of space within each arch to give the crew plenty of headroom.

At the outset of this discussion Monday night, Township Mayor Winthrop Pike made clear his opposition to anything that might delay the re-opening of the bridge. When the resolution finally came to a vote, he voted "yes," but with "extreme reluctance."

Committeeman William Cherry remarked that originally he too had wanted the bridge, any bridge, to be rebuilt and re-opened as quickly as possible. "But as time goes on," Mr. Cherry said, "the aesthetic aspects become more important." Mrs. Firestone agreed, adding that the bridge was going to be in place for a long time.

Garnet: Birthstone for January

From the Latin "granatus," meaning "having many seeds" because garnet crystals in a rock reminded early scientists of the shape and color of pomegranate ("granatum") seeds.

Garnets were known thousands of years before the Christian era and are mentioned in early Biblical writings. It was the gemstone of faith, consistency and truth and was also believed to have curative powers. It was not uncommon to grind garnets into a powder for poultices to relieve fever. If the powder failed to be effective, the apothecary was blamed for having used a substitute.

Asiatics used garnets as bullets, believing their color would inflict a more deadly wound. And speaking of color, even most jewelers are unaware that the birthstone for January occurs in virtually every color of the spectrum except blue... and it is perfectly correct for the January born to wear red, pink, orange, violet, yellow or green garnets.

What jewelers do realize, however, is that certain garnets, notably those called Pyrope, can look very much like dark rubies and it is not uncommon to see a pyrope garnet mounted in a ring and surrounded by a multitude of diamonds and proudly proclaimed a "ruby" by the unsuspecting owner. Testing equipment can readily distinguish one from the other.

The garnet is not a single gemstone. Rather, there are a number of separate species that make up the garnet group. The most commonly encountered is the Almandine, characterized by its dark, slightly brownish-red to purplish-red color. The Pyrope is usually more transparent and has a purer red. The latter have long been described and sold by much misleading names as "Colorado ruby," "Cape ruby," "Arizona ruby" among others.

The Rhodolite is distinctive in its violet- or purplish-red color. To those who enjoy this hue, the Rhodolite is a lovely stone that closely resembles some fine corundum, i.e., violetish rubies or the so-called plum sapphires.

The Grossularite garnet occurs in the widest range of colors, from a rich, brownish yellow resembling fine topaz to a translucent green resembling jade.

The most important variety of Andradite group is an exceedingly brilliant, yellowish-green stone with strong fire called a demantoid garnet. Melanite is a rare, black variety belonging to this garnet group.

The Spessartite ranges from yellow-orange to orangy-red, orangy-brown to reddish-brown. Gem quality orange is quite rare.

Garnets range in hardness from 6½ to 7½. Their toughness is fair to good and they make excellent gemstones for almost any type of jewelry. Prices may begin at $24 per carat in most varieties depending upon individual beauty, color and clarity to $500 per carat for the green Andradite.

Down-zoning Discussed. In its work session, Committee heard Mr. Kimball describe the reasoning and planning that has gone into a proposed amendment to reduce the permitted floor-area ratio (FAR) in the office-research OR 3 zone between Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road. The proposed amendment will be introduced at the next regular meeting of Township Committee on Thursday, January 28, at 8 p.m.

In addition to a reduction in permitted FAR from a maximum of 22 percent to an average of 12 percent, which Mr. Kimball called "a substantial reduction in development intensity," the proposed amendment would split the 26-acre zone in two subzones, OR 3A and OR 3B. Each would have different bulk requirements.

The more readily developable OR 3A, which comprises a flat cornfield, would have less restrictive requirements than OR 3B which lies in the environmentally more sensitive wooded and sloped ridge area. In addition, office buildings in both subzones would be required to be no less than two stories high in order to reduce the "footprint" of development on the land.

Mayor Pike warned that down-zoning has led in the past to law suits and it was a question of whether the community was willing to support this method of restricting development on sensitive areas, realizing that it is costly. The four law suits arising from litigation in the wake of the 1980 Master Plan reportedly have cost the Township $450,000 in legal fees thus far, and two still remain to be heard or settled.

In response to a question from Committeeman Cherry, Mr. Kimball said that the Planning Board had before it one concept review, not a formal site plan application. This developer, a father son Cherry Hill partnership, had been "fully advised every step of the way," Mr. Kimball said, and even invited to subcommittee meetings in which the conclusion was reached that a revision to the ordinance was needed.

Mr. Kimball said he felt the proposed ordinance repre-

Meter Hike Studied

Does the near future hold an increase in parking meter rates from 30 cents to 50 cents an hour? Could be.

Borough Administrator Mark Gordon has asked Carl Peters, the Borough engineer, to study a possible meter rate increase. The study is almost complete and will be brought before Mayor and Council very soon.

Mr. Gordon said that nothing has been decided, but that it seemed advisable to look at this possibility now that budget time is here. Noting that the last increase came in 1982, he said this was "just a method of keeping up with the times."

sented "work well documented," not only by himself but also by Garmen Associates, traffic consultants who prepared a report on traffic that would result from full build-out permitted in area zoning in both Princeton and Montgomery.

Preparation of the ordinance was done "in conjunction" with Montgomery, he said, and that municipality had already reduced the permitted FAR from 15 to 12 percent in an office zone that is much larger in acreage than Princeton's.

Valley Road School Cafe Gets School Board Nod

The Princeton Regional School Board voted unanimously to allow a group of high school students to operate a weekend cafe for teenagers in the gym of the Valley Road School.

The Board, which gave the teenagers the right to use the gym through the end of March, stated its hope that the municipalities and various agencies would assume some role after that.

"We're setting this deadline to let other agencies know that we're serious and want help," said Finance Committee Chairman Hugh Brandt.

Mr. Brandt said the board might allow continuing use of the building and might even fund some physical modifications, such as the installation of a phone booth.

But he noted that two large areas of concern remain. One is the possibility of having to hire someone to supervise; the other is the desire for another institution to place the cafe on its insurance.

For now, however, a number of persons, including Princeton High School Principal John Sakala, have offered to help supervise the Friday and Saturday night cafe, which its organizers are determined to keep free of drugs and alcohol.

A band, "None of the Above," will be featured on the cafe's opening night, which is scheduled for Friday, March 7.

Ellen O'Grady, a PHS senior who has been one of the leaders in the effort to open the cafe, said that students have already met and divided into committees. These include Food, Decoration, and Furniture. Students from Princeton Day School, Hun, and Stuart, as well as from PHS, are active in the project.

Betty Klingehiel, one of the organizers of the Sports Illuminated/Project Youth Committee, said the municipalities should make a contribution to the project. "Usually a youth center is run by a recreation department, or else it's a money-making private enterprise."

Mrs. Klingehiel has been involved in organizing a town meeting on youth concerns which was scheduled to be held this past Tuesday night.

She said she was hoping to have a variety of people at the meeting who would look into both future and intermediate plans. The long-term goal, she said, is to have a community center and sports fields for the youth of Princeton.

"Sports fields are important to younger kids and then their needs shift to a youth center. With these two we could serve all school age students."

The meeting will include brainstorming sessions on both the long- and short-term agenda. Some of the more pressing immediate questions will involve finding a place for the teens after the March 31 Valley Road cutoff, determining who pays for the operation of the cafe, and deciding whether a youth director will need to be hired.

Groups will be formed to determine the feasibility of the various ideas, and members will get together again on January 27 to report their findings.

SIX JOIN TOWNSHIP POLICE FORCE: These six police officers appointed to the Township Police Department in 1985 are recent graduates of 14 weeks of extensive police training. They are from left, Officers Sean Reed, Mike Henderson, Art Villaruz, Dave Leiggi, Tony Strong and John Buszko. Officers Leiggi, Reed and Strong all attended Princeton public schools. The new officers will fill three vacancies created by retirement and three by the N.J. Safe Streets Act, a state-funded program that helps subsidize salaries and is designed to put more officers on the street. The addition of the new officers brings the Township police force up to 30 plus two dispatchers. Officers Villaruz and Leiggi are graduates of the New Jersey State Police Academy in Sea Girt; the others are graduates of the Trenton Police Academy. Officer Henderson attained the highest academic average, Officer Reed the highest firearm average.

Figures Are Only Preliminary, But Increase In Township Taxes Could Be as High as 23%

Township property owners who confidently thought that the 1985 residential building boom would bring rateables sufficient to hold property taxes at last year's level, or raise them very little, are in for something of a shock.

Preliminary figures indicate a municipal tax increase that may be as much as nine cents or 23 percent higher than 1985. Last year's increase was two cents or five percent higher than 1984.

As projected by Township Administrator James R. Pascale in a budget summary worksheet prepared for Township Committee's first 1986 budget session last Saturday morning, the estimated municipal tax rate, without county and school taxes, could be $49 per $100 of assessed valuation. This would mean a $90 increase for the owner of a $100,000 home and proportionately more for homes of higher value.

Mr. Pascale and Township Mayor Winthrop Pike repeatedly emphasized that the figures are very preliminary thus far. Certain information, such as the amount of surplus and the uncollected taxes spelled out in the 1985 audited statement and how much state and federal revenue sharing can be expected, is still being collected. Nonetheless, the Township has a fairly clear idea of what it will have to spend in 1986, and it is from this that the estimates can be made.

According to Mr. Pascale's figures, the Township's preliminary proposed 1986 budget totals $8,551,026. This represents an increase of $845,520, or 11 percent higher than in 1985. The amount to be raised by taxation is some $709,319, or a whopping 27 percent higher than in 1985.

The major increase is in the capital improvement fund which provides the necessary five percent downpayment to undertake capital projects. More than $5.5 million of the $7 million in projected capital improvements is attributable to sewer rehabilitation work. Some $375,000 is included for putting a six-inch clay cap or seal to close the filled-up section of the River Road landfill as required by the Department of Environmental Protection.

Still other proposed capital projects include the resurfacing of Mount Lucas Road, the Township's share of automating the Public Library's circulation system, acquisition of two tracts for open space, and the purchase of a fire pumper.

Other increases on the expense side of the ledger are attributable to the hiring of three new police officers in 1985, the proposed purchase of three new police cars, and a 47 percent increase in insurance costs.

The Township stands to add $18,638,221 in rateables from new construction in 1985, an increase of 2.7 percent, which Mr. Pascale describes as "not all that significant." He points out that the budget is up $709,319 over 1985 and that it would take new rateables amounting to $182 million, or an increase of 26 percent over the previous year, to result in zero tax increase.

The bottom line, he points out, is that expenditures far outweigh the tax-producing rateable gain. Looking at the $182 million figure in new rateables he says would be required to offset $709,319 in new expenditures, he says the question is does the community want that much growth? If it prefers to limit growth, it will have to increase the tax rate instead, he notes.

The sewer rate of $3.21 is expected to remain the same. Although 1985 was a dry year, resulting in lower sewer treatment costs because of less extraneous water infiltrating the system, Township Committee made a policy decision Saturday morning to keep the sewer rate at last year's level even though a $366,000 surplus is expected to be generated. The surplus will be earmarked specifically for sewer repair, it was noted.

Mr. Pascale is estimating the Township's share of major sewer rehabilitation work proposed by the Sewer Operating Committee to replace trunk and collector lines at $5 million. This would increase the Township's sewer debt service by an estimated $700,000 in 1987 to fund this new debt, he points out.

Mayor Pike told Committee that he would be having a meeting this Thursday with State Senator Gerald Stockman and Assemblyman John Watson to see if the municipalities could get state monies for sewer repair. He said Hamilton Township had recently received state money for sewer repair, and he and Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund see no reason why Princeton should not also share in whatever money is available to municipalities.

Skating Party Jan. 25

The Princeton Skating Club will hold a party at the Princeton Day School skating rink next Saturday, January 25, from 8:15 to 9:45 p.m. Admission is $2 and there will be refreshments.

For further information call Alana Jeydel, 924-7685 or Linda Martin, (201) 359-7480.

The proposed Township budget reflects a 6.25 percent across-the-board salary adjustment for all Township personnel. In addition the Township embarked on a program of one percent merit awards in 1985. Out of a staff of 100, 25 received these awards.

Additional personnel have been requested in the finance, tax collection and tax assessor departments and by the administrator. A part time fire prevention inspector will have to be hired to comply with a new state code, and the upgrading of the assistant engineer and an equipment operator is also being requested.

To keep the actual municipal expenditures within the five percent "cap" law, although the Township budget will reflect the permitted six percent cap and place the unexpended one percent in surplus, the Township Administrator has recommended a number of cuts or transfers out of the cap requirements in the budget requests of most of the departments.

This week Township Committee will turn its attention to the budgets of the Joint Agencies. Committee is planning a preliminary review of these budgets on Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the Valley Road building. Saturday's joint session with Borough Council will also be held in the Valley Road building and will begin at 9:30.

Dr. Dyson Will Speak At Rutgers Colloquium

Dr. Freeman Dyson, Battle Road, author of Weapons and Hope and a lecturer on issues of war and peace, will be one of the featured speakers in a major colloquium beginning Monday at Rutgers University's Douglass College. Dr. Dyson, who will speak on February 17, will present a lecture entitled "Camels and Swords, Issues of War and Peace."

The seven-part series "Bridging the Gap: The Two Cultures Revisited," will focus on questions first raised by British scientist and author C.P. Snow in 1959 in his widely debated lecture, "The Two Cultures." Snow discussed the links and tensions between the sciences and humanities and raised questions about the future relationships between them.

The colloquium will build on Snow's theme, offering a variety of perspectives from both scientists and humanists on critical issues confronting society.

The colloquium will meet at 7 p.m. on seven consecutive Mondays in Room 200 of the Art History Building. All lectures are free and open to the public.

According to Dr. Mary S. Hartman, dean of Douglass College, "The gap that C.P. Snow identified 25 years ago still exists. We at Douglass are pleased to offer a forum for continued discussion of the issues he raised."

Route One Is The Focus Of Two Court Appeals

Princeton Borough has asked the State Supreme Court to hear an appeal on its Route 1 suit. Last month, three state Appellate Court judges upheld Judge Paul Levy's earlier dismissal of the suit.

Because the judges' ruling was unanimous, the Borough must file for permission to argue the case before the Supreme Court. Had a judge dissented, it would have automatically gone to the high court.

The suit, first filed in March of last year, requested the court to void the land use laws of West Windsor, South Brunswick, and Plainsboro, and to prohibit these towns, plus Lawrence, from issuing any building permits for non-residential development until development plans are coordinated with each other and with those of neighboring towns — and until Route 1's capacity is enlarged to accommodate the region's actual and projected growth.

Concurrently, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation in Plainsboro is moving forward with an appeal of its suit to halt construction on Princeton Forrestal Village pending resolution of traffic concerns at Route 1 and College Road.

The charitable foundation, located directly across Route 1 from the Forrestal Village site, will charge that the Plainsboro Planning Board should not have approved the development without requiring an overpass or underpass at College Road and Route 1 East.

The Foundation's suit against the Plainsboro Township Committee, Planning Board, Princeton University, Toombs Development Co., and the Middlesex County Planning Board was rejected in June. The judge ruled that ground-level road improvements will adequately handle the traffic generated by the first phase of the two-phase contract.

Women To Be Admitted Decides Cottage Club

The University Cottage Club, one of three all-male eating clubs at Princeton University, has voted to admit women. This leaves Ivy Club and Tiger Inn as the only remaining male-only clubs.

The policy barring women has been the subject of a legal challenge by 1980 Princeton graduate Sally Frank who, when informed of the club's decision, said, "I'm really glad they're finally moving into the 20th century."

A press release signed by James L. Crawford, chairman of the Graduate Board of Cottage Club, and Hugu DeWynne of Battle Road stated that the decision came out of a polling of Cottage Club's entire graduate membership and lengthy consultations among Cottage Club's Governors and undergraduate members.

Women for the first time will be permitted to participate in the club's annual selection process, known as "bicker," scheduled for next month. The release notes the club's desire to hold a "congenial bicker."

The decision of Cottage, where F. Scott Fitzgerald was a member while a Princeton student, comes after two legal rulings against the clubs.

In December, a state administrative law judge confirmed an earlier Division of Civil Rights ruling that the clubs are public and thus subject to state anti-discrimination laws. A further hearing on the case is scheduled for February 16.

Power Outage Reported Early Sunday Morning

An area from Harrison Street up to University Place was without electrical power for a brief period early Sunday morning.

The Township police docket carried a notice at 2:21 of a widespread power outage in the South Harrison Street area. Capt. Jack Petrone said that no reason was given for the outage, which he described as a "temporary situation due to some overload." Power, he said, for that area comes from Route 1 transformers.

Borough Chief Michael Carnevale also confirmed that there was a outage for a short period.

A clerk in the Wawa store on University Place became concerned when the lights went out at 2:20 and called police because there were customers in the store at the time. Chief Carnevale reported there was no trouble, however, because the power was soon restored. He estimated the outage did not last any longer than 15 minutes.

He added that Borough police also do not know what caused the outage.

first-floor offices in the 20 Nassau building. Police are looking for a black male who was seen leaving a Chambers Street exit by the building superintendent moments after an alarm sounded at 10:20 last Wednesday evening.

Between $200 and $300 in petty cash was removed from a metal cash box in an unlocked desk drawer in one of the offices. Nothing was taken from the second.

Ptl. Donald Dawson, who responded to the superintendent's call, found that a wall between a utility room and the office in which the petty cash was stolen had been broken through. Police said it was apparent that the intruder has used some kind of tool to create an opening.

From there, he broke into an adjoining office, using the same method to break through the wall. The owners of the second office were notified to come to the scene and after investigating they told police that nothing appears to have been disturbed or missing.

According to Chief Michael Carnevale, as the intruder was leaving the second office, he activated an alarm. Three patrol ears responded to the call of the building superintendent but a search of the area failed to uncover the suspect.

He is described as 20 to 30 years old, 5-9, thin, with a moustache and goatee, wearing a black leather jacket, blue jeans and red hat.

Real Estate Office Entered. Earlier in the week, police report that the rear door of a real estate office in the 100 block of Nassau Street had been kicked in and the office entered.

Stolen were an IBM PC computer system and printer and a Xerox copy machine. Police have dusted for fingerprints and are continuing their investigation of the overnight theft. Chief Carnevale said that police have not yet received a value of the missing items.

Eating Clubs Are Target Of Active Sneak Thieves

The Princeton University eating clubs on Prospect Avenue continue to be visited every week by sneak thieves.

Last week a Princeton resident visiting the Terrace Club left his $200 leather coat in the club's coat room. When he returned a half hour later, his coat was missing, as was a $30 leather wallet containing $10 cash.

A university student reported the theft of his $75 red ski jacket Sunday from a Charter Club coat room and another student listed the theft of his wallet containing $21 and a $26 pair of gloves from his coat which he had left in a coat room in the Tower Club.

A student's backpack left unattended between 4 and 6 Sunday afternoon in a room in the Woodrow Wilson School building yielded the victim's $20 leather wallet containing $70 and credit cards.

Between December 18 and January 3, someone entered an office in Dillon Gym on campus and removed $770 from a file cabinet. Police report there were no signs of forced entry into the office or the cabinet.

Someone entered an office in the Engineering Quadrangle on Olden Street between 1 a.m. and noon Friday and stole a Sony Walkman valued at $120 from a desk drawer. Police identified the victim as an employee of the university.

Doughnut Thief Returns. The thief who has been helping himself to pastries left outside the Wawa Store on Nassau Street by the New Colonial Bakery in Trenton struck again last week. This time, five dozen assorted doughnuts worth $12.50 are missing, taken between 3:45 and 5 Thursday morning.

Prof. Moriarty Perhaps? An original, autographed photograph of film star Basil Rathbone in his Sherlock Holmes attire was stolen last week from a wall in a shop on Nassau Street near Bank Street. The 8 by 10 framed photograph is valued at $300 and was reported missing at 10:30 Saturday morning.

Two more radar detectors were stolen last week from parked cars. A $250 Escort model was removed from a 1984 Honda while it was parked in the North Stanworth Lane area near the victim's apartment — a passenger window had been broken to enter the car — and a detector valued at $150 was taken from the visor of a 1983 Audi of a Princeton Junction resident while it was parked for 15 minutes last week in the Park Place Int. Entry was gained by breaking a front vent window.

Eight tapes valued at $75 were stolen from the unlocked Lincoln of a Ewing Township resident while her car was parked between 11 Saturday night and 3:14 Sunday morning on John Street between Lytle and Clay.

A student's 10-speed bicycle valued at $400 was stolen sometime during the holiday period from the Blair-Joline Hall archway on the university campus. The front wheel of the bike had been secured with a Kryptonite lock, police said.

Street Sign Stolen. It will cost the Borough $75 to replace a street sign that was stolen last week from the corner of Bayard Lane and Westcott Road, and $250 to replace two meters that were damaged by a blunt instrument on Prospect Avenue near Washington Road. The meter vandalism, reported by meter department superintendent John Jackson, is the latest incident in a string of attacks on Prospect Avenue meters.

Trenton Man Is Charged With Shoplifting at PSC

A Trenton resident, Charles G. Warren, 25, has been charged with shoplifting two pair of corduroy trousers valued at $55.98 from Epstein's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Ice Skating Hotline

Ice skating season is here. For ice condition reports, call the Princeton Recreation Department at 921-9480, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, or listen to radio stations WHWH (1350 AM) and WPRB (103 FM).

Skating is permitted only on the pond at Community Park North and on Lake Carnegie between the Washington Road bridge and Harrison Street bridge. Anyone choosing to skate does so at their own risk.

For those who choose to skate remember: Never skate alone; Never skate when a red flag is present; Never skate under the bridges. No motor vehicles, bicycles, or ice boats are permitted on the ice. Be alert to changing ice and weather conditions.

Warren was observed last week attempting to conceal the clothing under his jacket, was detained, arrested and then taken to police headquarters. He was later released after being issued a summons signed by a member of Epstein security.

Two young men, described by a clerk at the Wawa Store on University Place as "two in an unruly group of students" left the store without paying for food they ate.

A store clerk, concerned about the group and fearful, police said, that some shoplifting would take place, called police at 3:23 Friday morning. When Ptl. Donald Dawson arrived, all the members of the group had fled.

The clerk gave the officer a description of one of the students who had eaten two hot dogs (63 cents each): about 19, 5-10, stocky with dark curly hair, wearing a blue jacket. The suspect who ate a $2.39 sandwich and left without paying is described as 19, 5-11, with brown hair wearing a dark sweatshirt.

High School Is Entered. As Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm and Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel responded to an alarm at Princeton High School at 9:06 Saturday night, they saw three teenagers leaving the main entrance as they approached the building. When the youths saw the patrol car, they fled.

Det. John Reading, who had also responded in an unmarked car, caught one of the suspects, a 15-year-old youth, on Franklin Avenue; another, also 15, was apprehended on Linden Lane and Franklin by Township Ptl. James Vandermark. The third escaped.

An investigation by Det. Reading revealed that the students had entered the high school through a trap door in the roof. Both were later released to their parents.

Det. Reading is continuing the investigation and charges are pending until police determine if any theft was committed.

Two Drivers Are Hurt Both Cars Are 'Totalled'

The drivers of two small cars were hurt and both their cars were totalled, following an accident last week at the intersection of Route 27 and Riverside Drive.

One of the drivers, Keith B. Martin, 22, 660 Lake Drive, stopped on Riverside behind a UPS delivery truck, was issued a summons by Ptl. John Clausen for a red light violation. He told police that he had followed the truck across the intersection where he was struck on the right side by a car traveling on Route 27 operated by Colleen A. Pazos, 23, of East Brunswick.

Mr. Martin contended that he could not see if the light had changed because his vision had been blocked by the truck. However, a witness, Diane Ellis of Hightstown, stopped on Snowden Lane for the traffic light, told Ptl. Clausen that she saw the Martin car cross the intersection against the red light. Both drivers were treated at Princeton Medical Center and released. Mr. Martin for hip injuries, Miss Pazos for bruises and contusions of the leg.

2 Cars Are Vandalized In Village Housing Lots

Two cars parked in Princeton Community Village lots last week were the target of vandals.

The windshield of a 1985 VW parked on Mulberry Row was broken with a BB pellet, leaving the victim with an estimated $150 replacement bill.

All four tires of a 1981 Mazda parked in the Holly House lot

Two Young Mothers Share One Job In Princeton Recreation Department

ALL BENEFIT: Four-month old Blair Nichols, left, and Courtney Clarkson enjoy the attention and activity in the Recreation Department. Each spends several hours a day on top of or along side the desks of their mothers, Amanda Blair Nichols, left, and Kathy Clarkson, as the two mothers share one job on a temporary basis.

A very small pink snow suit dangles alongside the full length parkas on the coat rack by the entrance of the Recreation Department.

From inside an office cubicle comes the soft tinkle of a music box. What's happening here? Have municipal Recreation Department offerings expanded to include the very youngest as well as seniors and the men, women and children of Princeton for whom it plans a vast array of sports and leisure activities?

Time-sharing is the term for permitting two young mothers to work part-time by sharing the responsibilities of one job. According to Recreation Director Donald Barr, who encouraged the concept from the beginning, it has proved beneficial not only for the two first-time mothers and their infant daughters, but also for the Department.

Kathy Clarkson, a program supervisor who has been with the Recreation Department for five years, became pregnant at about the same time as Amanda Blair Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Blair. Kathy runs programs for senior citizens as well as women and girls. She plans ski trips and dance festivals and supervises the field work of the recreation intern sent by area colleges.

A graduate of Princeton High School, Amanda met her husband Peter while both were serving as lifeguards at the Community Park Pool. She has also worked as a part-time secretary during the busy summer season, and according to Mr. Barr, is "totally familiar" with the policies and procedures of the Department. Moreover she is conscientious and "so well-liked by everyone."

So when Kathy proposed that she and Amanda share the responsibilities of the program supervisor job instead of her taking a six month maternity leave, Mr. Barr was amenable to the idea. If the Department were to hire a replacement for six months, it would take four months just to break someone into the job, he reasoned. "It seemed the most logical way to get the work done," he says.

Kathy's daughter, Courtney Elizabeth Clarkson, was born September 11 and is a month older than Blair Catherine Nichols, born October 16. Kathy returned to work, bringing Courtney with her when the baby was six weeks old. Amanda began a bit sooner and brings Blair.

Initially the two women thought they would split the day in half but Kathy finds it too difficult to get a small baby ready to leave her home in Hamilton in time to be at the Recreation Department at 9 a.m. And Amanda found that staying until 5 was too late and too long for her daughter.

So Kathy comes in around 10, Amanda a bit later. Each learns something of parenting from the other, there is continuity and overlap to program planning at the Recreation Department, and everyone is delighted with the arrangement which will continue just until early March, when Kathy will resume her full time status.

The time-sharing arrangement was endorsed by Township Administrator James Pascale, father of a toddler son whose wife is expecting twins. "It works out well," he says. "There is continuity by having someone familiar with the program, and morning and afternoon we always have somebody fresh."

Mr. Barr also knew that Amanda was interested in getting into the recreation field, and part of his motivation was the encourage her. "I wish I had another position in program supervision to offer her," he says. However, budget restrictions prevent this, although in his view the Department is understaffed and has been for a long time.

Driver Is Fined for DWI And Refusing Breath Test

In Borough traffic court Monday, Grant Greene, 44 Rollingmead, was fined $315 and had his license suspended for six months by presiding judge G. Thomas Reynolds for driving while intoxicated. He was also sentenced to 12 hours in the Intoxicated Drivers' Resource Center.

For refusing to take a breath test, Mr. Greene was fined $265 and lost his license an additional six months. He was found not guilty on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Two paid two fines: Peter Donnelly, 45 Autumn Hill Road, $115 for careless driving and $65 for speeding, and Harold P. Johnson, 19 Jill Lane, Lawrenceville, $65 red light, and $20, no license or registration in possession.

Others: Thomas Summers, 203 Loetscher Place, and Michael Daly, Mountainview Avenue, Skillman, $65 and $60 respectively for speeding; Teresa Bialas, 3701 Princeton Pike, $65, careless driving, and Uta Runyan, 22 Tupelo Row, $20, failure to set hand brake.

Township Court, In Township court last week, two Princeton area residents were fined for drunken driving.

Cesar E. Lithgow, 68 Skillman Road, Skillman, was fined $615 by Judge Sydney Souter and had his license revoked for two years. In addition, he was

Gillian Godfrey Named Senior Center Director

Gillian Wendy Godfrey has been named director of the Suzanne Patterson Senior Center. This is the new joint Borough and Township senior center located behind Borough Hall.

Ms. Godfrey, a resident of Lake Drive, was born in London. She became an American citizen in 1969 and has lived in the Princeton area "on and off" for the past 23 years.

Trained as an occupational therapist in Oxford and Exeter, England, she was most recently the boarding home out-reach director for Mercer County for the Association for the Advancement of Mental Health (AAMH) in Princeton.

The new director has been hired for a 35-hour week. She will be paid $16.50 per hour.

Ms. Godfrey plans to visit seniors to talk with them and to ask them to fill out a questionnaire that will help her determine their interests.

"I'll ask if there's something they've always wanted to do but hadn't had the chance. And I will also make it clear that this is their program, not mine."

On two other charges, Mr. Lithgow was fined $215 as an unlicensed driver and $65 for unregistered vehicle.

She also plans to find out the kinds of programs being offered by other institutions in town, such as the Y and the library. "My first goal is to get the seniors involved in the community and in what is already going on," she said. "Then volunteers and myself will endeavor to provide those things not already offered."

Michael S. Kostue, 21 Berrien Court, Princeton Junction, was fined $365 and lost his license for six months. He has to spend 12 hours at the Intoxicated Drivers' Resource Center.

For driving while her license was suspended, Christine Kennedy, 31 Greenhrier Row, was fined $515, lost her license for six months, placed on a year's probation and issued a 30-day suspended jail sentence.

Because her license had been revoked for drunken driving, Judge Souter fined her an additional $500 and suspended her license for an additional year.

Michael R. McCarthy, 709A Cherry Hill Road, was fined $65 for speeding and $25 for having no insurance. Heong L. Loy, 29 Silvers Lane, Plainsboro, paid $65 for careless driving.

Big Insurance Increases Hit Towns, Organizations

To the Editor of Town Topics:

More and more municipalities and other local organizations are reporting staggering increases in projected insurance costs for the coming year. For example, Lawrence Township expects its insurance costs to increase two-and-a-half times last year's costs. Clubs and businesses, especially those that serve liquor to the public, are facing similar increases. The same is true, of course, of the medical profession.

The reason for this unhappy situation is the rash of astronomical verdicts that juries around the country are awarding in various kinds of damage suits. These large verdicts have caused large losses to some insurance companies and have led them to stop issuing policies covering these types of risks. Those companies still issuing policies feel that they must charge high premiums to protect against such losses.

While no one will contest the right of people who have been damaged through the fault of others to be reasonably compensated for their damages, some public control should be exercised to prevent unreasonable and unconscionable awards. An analogous situation existed in the early part of this century when the courts were flooded with lawsuits brought by employees against employers for damages resulting from injuries incurred in the course of their employment. At that time, in order to bring order out of chaos, state legislatures passed workers' compensation laws which established reasonable monetary limits for damages awards for various types of injuries. These laws have become, of course, an accepted part of our legal system.

There are movements afoot to establish a system of limitations on damage awards in non-employee-employer cases. I suggest that, in order to bring order out of our present chaos, we should urge our legislators, both state and federal, to support these movements.

Comments Are Disturbing About Housing Authority

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Joint Civil Rights Commission and the Princeton Housing Authority are two community agencies with the same goals; namely, striving to help secure the most basic needs of community residents, particularly of those who are the most unable to provide for themselves.

In the case of the JCRC, this touches, as Ms. Joan Hill ably points out in her interview in the TOWN TOPICS of January 8, many areas that affect the quality of life and well-being.

In the case of the Housing Authority, it is to provide to the best of its ability, decent, affordable housing in an environment which incorporates that housing into the life of the community.

In order to best carry out these functions, we must be committed to mutually support each others' endeavors, which deal with such intertwined human needs.

Disturbing Remarks. That is why in reading the interview with Ms. Hill, it was disturbing to read her statement in regard to Housing Authority matters. First, her remark about "heating problems" and "shoddy construction" brings to mind the thought that the JCRC seems to be a rather inappropriate place to bring such complaints, but since they apparently were, why were they never brought to the attention of the Health Department or the Housing Authority?

Had the heating problem been brought to our attention, Ms. Hill would have learned that we are keenly aware of heating problems at Redding Circle, which we have been trying to deal with on an ongoing basis, until now. With funds long sought and recently approved by HUD, we are in the process of seeking bids to correct these problems.

Ms. Hill could then have reassured those who had come to her that the problems are being dealt with as expeditiously as possible. We have a policy of responding to tenants' complaints promptly, when we are advised of them. Tenants appear to appreciate our efforts, and to understand some of the problems involved.

Her second remark, in regard to the "feeling" that community residents are bypassed in tenant selection, is an unfounded opinion which has been voiced, and will no doubt continue to be voiced, as long as the need for housing is so acute, and when only three to four family applicants, out of a waiting list of 163 families, can be housed each year. When one has been on a list for three, four or five years, one can hardly be blamed for thinking that surely others are being admitted first. However, our most recent admittance was a family that had applied in January 1980; prior to that, the family selected has been waiting since September 1979.

Priority for Princetonians. Both of these families had long-established Princeton residence. Our policy, approved although not encouraged by HUD, permits us to establish a priority for applicants who live, have lived, or work in Princeton. It does not permit us to discriminate in terms of the number of years that a family has lived here, or whether or not one is a native Princetonian.

It would not make sense to bypass local residents in the selection process, when the Housing Authority fought long and hard to be permitted to establish a Princeton priority. This is also true of Princeton Community Housing, with a similar policy.

Other criteria for tenant selection include the length of the waiting period, as well as the need in terms of quality of housing, excessive rent or overcrowded conditions.

I have no hesitation in stating that to the best of my knowledge, there is no family living in the Housing Authority housing which had not established proper residence or work priority in Princeton, prior to being offered housing.

Heartbreaking Decision. It is quite often a most heartbreaking decision that the commissioners of the Housing Authority are required to make in selecting a tenant, and their job is not made easier by casual unsubstantiated comments, reflecting on the integrity of their selections, especially from a source which is in a position to allay fears rather than perpetuate a myth.

The task has been helped in recent months, in the selection of elderly tenants for housing, thanks to the opening of Elm Court, which is providing comfortable, affordable housing to a number of elderly Princeton residents. However, the families of low income in this town are finding the door closed more and more often, as they seek decent housing for themselves and their children.

That is why we wrote to the mayors and members of the governing bodies of Princeton Borough and Township recently, urging that they do everything in their power to include low income rental housing in their deliberations regarding affordable housing.

Planning Board Suffers From Generalized Bias

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Your January 8 lead article quotes a realtor, elected to Township Committee, who may join the Planning Board. "Mrs. Firestone says the potential for conflict [of interest on the Board] exists already for lawyers, bankers, architects, and people with connections to area businesses and the University and adds that her appointment would be no different." She is right. But also, she points to the most unsavory and problematic aspect of our local government.

Land development interests conflict with interests in Princeton as a quiet town with a stable population. Our local politics now seems to be driven by this conflict. The steam shovel party and the quiet-town party are not hard to identify. The higher per-capita income municipality has tended to vote for one of these parties, and the more congested municipality, for the other.

But the Planning Board is a juridical institution. By law, its role is not legislative or political. This position is now difficult to maintain, since its power over the issues that most concern Princetonians exceeds that of the elected municipal councils.

As you point out in the same article, "The Planning Board will be undertaking a review of the Master Plan in the coming year"; and this project will raise its influence even further. If its decisions are to be seen in public as legitimate, it might take more care than in the past to make sure private interests, even of a long-range and indirect sort, play no part in its legally juridical decisions.

Collins Decisions Hasty. The past record — for example, the hasty decisions on the Collins plans in 1983, when under Mayor Cawley there was no adequate balance of reasons on the Board — tended to polarize Princeton politically. The record is questionable on that ground alone.

If fewer of the Board members voting then had come from the groups that Mrs. Firestone notes, the decisions would undoubtedly have taken better account of environmental and social laws. The Board would then not have opened itself to suits of appeal for neglecting these laws. Even more important, its credibility as a fair and circumspect court would not have been tarnished.

This is Princeton, not Boston. The Board has suffered from generalized bias, not legal corruption. There has long been a habit, a usual acceptance, of the idea that most Board members will be people heavily involved in land, real estate, law, local finance, architecture, and construction.

If this habit continues, there is no way the Board can stand above the most important current kind of local politics. (Even if Mrs. Firestone were to show exceptional restraint and decide against joining the Board, this old habit would not be broken — because as she accurately says, many members have long had broad, general connections with development interests.)

Disinterested Saints Needed. The problem, of course, is that Board members have to put in long hours. It must be hard to find disinterested saints — expert saints, at that — who are willing to serve actively, raising a wide and circumspect variety of serious questions about each proposal that comes to the Board, rather than remaining rather quiet at hearings, asking a presentable decent minimum of probes about each plan, and then voting predictably according to the party lines that are obvious on the Board.

I think many would agree that a few really disinterested people, notably Mrs. Margen Penick, have in fact been willing to put in the requisite time and have developed expertise on their own, ably representing a truly public interest. But Princeton has allowed itself to accept the principle that such people will always be a minority of Board members.

In a court, even a quasi-court, that principle is illegitimate. If there is no way to staff the Board mostly with members who are publicly seen to have a broad juridical impartiality about development in general, then the governing bodies should face that problem squarely and reform the system to make it worthy of this town.

Look Beyond Self-Interest To Needs of Community

To the Editor of Town Topics: Wednesday evening I attended a Township Planning Board meeting. The main subject of the meeting was a conceptual discussion of the proposed "Pretty Brook" development. This development is neither on, nor off of Pretty Brook Road, but it's a nice name, and I guess that's very important.

I've lived in Princeton Township for over 50 years. Wednesday evening's meeting was a reinforcement of all my concerns about the future of Princeton. Most of those attending the meeting, certainly those who were vocal, were concerned about "their road," "their corner," "their wall," etc., but none seemed to be at all concerned about the environmental impact of this development on the Township as a whole.

It is human nature to be most concerned about one's immediate surroundings, but this town and its problems have sadly grown beyond that. The composition and fragility of the specific land in question was mentioned, but not the long range damage developing this land would cause the rest of the Township. Nor was the ever present hidden expense to taxpayers as a whole ever stressed. The general sense of the meeting was gratitude to the developers for coming from Houston, Texas and favoring us with the lesser of three evils. (There were two other plans with more houses.) Somehow I didn't feel all that grateful. I felt angry; but, beyond that, I felt very sad.

I felt sad because all the wonderful things about Princeton that attract people are being destroyed by the growing number of people it attracts. Is it a "no win" situation? I hope not. What I do hope is that more residents will become involved in matters beyond their own back yards.

We should be very grateful for the dedicated men and women who serve on committees; grateful for the very competent reporters who inform us of the facts; but "we" have to do our part as well. We have to inform ourselves, and care in more than a selfish way. "We" have to care about closed and/or open septic systems leaching toxic wastes into our water, antiquated sewer systems spilling raw sewage onto our streets. We have to care about increased noise, traffic, congestion, pollution that invade our lives and our health. We have to care, and we have to act. A great deal more than our own back yards is being destroyed, never to be reclaimed.

The services of Princeton Township are now being strained beyond their ability to keep up with the growth; yet more and more is coming. More houses, more cars, more noise, more roads; roads to be plowed, swept, maintained, pavement where pavement never was, and perhaps was never meant to be, causing run-off and flooding and erosion. Wildlife displaced, brooks and streams polluted; peace bombarded by "progress." More and more heavy construction equipment wearing down our roads, and wearing us down as well.

I can appreciate residents being concerned with their immediate neighborhoods, but no longer should each new proposed development be treated as an isolated situation. Realistic bonds should be posted by contractors to repair roads beyond the immediate vicinity of a given development; and more concern and control should be exercised before permitting trees to be destroyed and the land rearranged.

We all should be aware of proposed changes beyond our own back yards.

It's no longer "my" house, and "my" land, and "my" road that are my only concern; it's "our town" that's in real jeopardy.

IT'S NEW To Us

Only the Best for Baby At Bellini Furniture

"This is a grandmother's delight!" exclaimed an enthralled customer at this charming new store in the Princeton Shopping Center. Indeed, with its attractive displays of cribs, baby furniture, toys and clothes, Bellini is a pleasure to the eye. Its bright, cheerful overtones invite the customer to browse or buy as the case may be, in an unhurried and congenial atmosphere.

A franchise, Bellini opened in mid-November, the third Bellini boutique in New Jersey, the 15th nationally. Owned and operated by Barney and Lois Feldman, the boutique features the exclusive line of Bellini children's furniture and accessories, including cribs, armchairs, dressers, bedding, trundle beds and desks. In addition to the quality Bellini products, the boutique also offers clothes (newborn to 24 months), layettes, play pens, strollers and a variety of toys and stuffed animals.

Convertibility is an important feature of Bellini furniture, notes Mr. Feldman. "Every crib converts to a junior bed and then a loveseat. This is a main difference between Bellini and other baby furniture. Convertibility, durability and fashion are the three main features. The Bellini concept is that the furniture grows right along with the child. As the child gets older, you can change the look of the furniture."

Made in Europe exclusively for Bellini, the furniture meets all U.S. safety regulations. Some of the safety features include internal stops on all drawers, metal glides instead of plastic, and wooden handles. The drawers are fitted with such precision that the piece of furniture cannot be rocked or inadvertently pushed over.

Cribs (ranging from $350 to $650) are made of beechwood, a particularly hard and dense wood, and every crib has a storage drawer underneath.

Distinctive design is a hallmark of Bellini furniture, and Mr. Feldman adds, "We are constantly coming out with new styles, designs, and color combinations: a white dresser with navy handles, for example, or white with red, etc." The furniture, including dressers, armchairs, changing tables and desks, is made of mica (similar to Formica) and is attractive with simple straight lines. The modular-built products offer a variety of styles and looks. Two of the most popular pieces are the changing table ($480) and the armchair ($650), says Mrs. Feldman.

The Feldmans, both New Jersey natives, are enthusiastic about their new venture and pleased with the response so far. "People are beginning to know us," notes Mr. Feldman. "Princeton is definitely a growth area, and there was nothing like a Bellini store here. People come in now and say, 'I'm so glad you're here. There's nothing like this.' Also, the shopping center is a good location, offering convenient shopping and parking, and it has a nice new look, too."

Formerly in the fabric business in New York City, Mr. Feldman was seeking a change. "I was looking to do something other than textiles. I wanted something on the ascendancy, and the baby business is big now. It's also a happy business. The people who come in are happy. Really, working with people who are happy is the biggest pleasure."

Special Time. Adds Mrs. Feldman, "People are marrying later and having babies later, and they want everything to be very special. This is a special time for them."

With a background in interior decorating (abundantly reflected in her delightful store displays), Mrs. Feldman is glad to be able to help customers with the complete coordination of the baby nursery if they wish.

"We'll help choose the decorations and coordinate the custom-made patterns for the room and also help with fabrics, color and wall paper. We have wall paper in juvenile patterns, and the bedding is also made exclusively for Bellini. We are offering an opening special of $50 off on a comforter set now."

There are many unusual articles in the store, she adds, "including ceramic hand-painted lamps that are custom-made. Their designs can be matched to the wall paper in the nursery."

Other items at Bellini's range from junior beds, high rise trundle beds, desks and rocking chairs to toy chests, play pens, strollers and high chairs. Mr. Feldman comments that "the youth furniture has the same quality and same safety features as the baby furniture."

Toys and clothes are in abundance also, and you can find wonderful rocking horses at $85 and $135, as well as a multitude of stuffed animals in all shapes and sizes. Fisher-Price toys, including a music box "Moon"

A Welcome Wardrobe From Expecting You

"We meet a lot of excited women," says Pattie Wilfrid, owner of the new shop for expectant mothers at 57 Palmer Square. "It's a nice time in their lives. They're having their first or second baby, and it's a happy time. It's fun to be a part of it. I really enjoy it, too."

The store, which opened last October, carries a wide variety of maternity clothes, from

"NUMBER 1 SALESPERSON" at Expecting You, Susan Dunn specializes in personal service and communication with the customer. A wide selection of fashions awaits the mother-to-be at this new shop.

dressy to casual, including dresses, blouses, sweaters, pants, blazers and nightwear and lingerie. Mrs. Wilfrid offers choices for women of different types and interests. "For the business woman who wants clothes for the office, there are tailored outfits and dresses. For the woman at home, we have jeans and active wear and oversized shirts. Stirrup pants and the big look are very popular now, too."

Mrs. Wilfrid believes "There is a more stylish and sophisticated look to maternity clothes now. They've changed a lot through the years. They're more flattering. You can really find everything that you'll find in regular women's clothes. Of course, they're made to accommodate the woman's changing figure, but the styles are the same."

One of the reasons Mrs. Wilfrid opened her shop was to help fill the need for a more stylish look in maternity clothes, she explains, "and I thought there was a need for a certain type of clothes, a certain look. When I was pregnant, I couldn't find just what I wanted."

Having been in the retail business for six years, she decided to open a shop in Princeton. "My husband and I always wanted a business, and I thought this area needed a maternity store. There really weren't any. I felt the need for my type of business here. I had shopped here and knew the area, and I hoped to be in Palmer Square. I'm happy to have the shop. And, of course, the clothes reflect my taste. I buy what I like. It would be hard for me to sell something I didn't care for."

Having opened Expecting You only a few months ago, she is pleased that "people are getting to know me. The response has been good. Also, it's very rewarding seeing something you start yourself develop and grow."

As the mother of three children (the youngest of whom is 3), she finds that busy, long days are now the routine. She wouldn't have it any other way, however, and the store is a welcome addition. "I love it!" she smiles. "It really keeps me going. I can't imagine not having it."

ty of fabrics, including cotton and flannel. Maternity hose in different colors and maternity underpants are also popular sellers. Bathing suits are also carried all year.

Expecting You provides not only the latest look in maternity clothes but also an appealing and engaging atmosphere for shopping. Above all, explains Mrs. Wilfrid, "Our sales people offer personal service. They are glad to help and offer a special personal touch."

This opinion is reinforced by Susan Dunn, Expecting You's "Number One Salesperson," according to Mrs. Wilfrid. "Communication with the customer is so important," notes Miss Dunn. "I really enjoy that aspect of the job. We emphasize personal service here and try hard to do our best."

Hours at Expecting You are 10 to 6 Monday through Saturday, until 9 Thursday and Friday.

Jumpers a Standby. Although tastes change and fashions come and go, some styles carry over from year to year, with just a change in the fabric, explains Mrs. Wilfrid. "For example, jumpers are a very popular item. You can do a lot with them. Sweaters and nursing apparel are always popular, too. We have feminine, frilly nursing gowns and nursing bras. And a lot of nightwear and lingerie."

Natural fabrics are a big seller now also, and she adds, "We have a lot of cotton. This is very much in demand. People like the way natural fabrics breathe and feel."

"A flattering look for the ladies" is the way she describes the graceful blouson style of dress, and there are many of these in a variety of colors and designs.

There are dresses for cocktail parties, jumpsuits for relaxing, and tailored outfits and dresses for the office. Lovely bright colors and a delightful variety of patterns and designs are available. There is a denim jumpsuit ($78) with a matching jacket that is "comfortable and fun," and a colorful warmup suit ($84) "great for exercising or lounging." United Way Hits 95%

The United Way - Red Cross campaign of the Princeton area communities is closing in on its $1.8 million goal, with $90,000 still to be raised.

The drive, being held on behalf of 28 local agencies, will extend into February in an effort to reach the top. The $1.8 million figure is regarded by United Way volunteers as the minimum that must be raised to meet the needs of its member agencies.

"We are strongly urging those residents and businesses that have not yet contributed to please do so as soon as possible," said campaign chairperson Albert Hanson.

Contributions should be sent to United Way - Princeton Area Communities, P.O. Box 1152, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

10 Percent Failure Rate In New State H.S. Exam

Ten percent of Princeton High School freshmen have failed the new state High School Proficiency Test (HSPT). However, these grades do not "count," as the HSPT will not officially replace the considerably less difficult Minimum Basic Skills Test until March of this year.

School officials were made aware of the failure rate only last week, when the state announced its cutoff scores. These are 61 in mathematics, 75 in reading, and 77 in writing.

Public high school students in New Jersey will not be allowed to graduate until they have achieved these scores. If they fail the HSPT in their freshman year, when it is first given, they may take it again each year.

School Superintendent Paul Houston called the results "disappointing but not surprising."

"We know that in this district we have the upper and lower end, as well as ten percent of our students in special education."

As an example of the spread in students' academic abilities, he mentioned that Princeton scored among the highest districts in the state in all three areas of the exam. And he noted that, according to state standards, 65 to 70 percent of Princeton students would be classified as "gifted and talented."

What the ten percent failure rate means, said the superintendent, is that those who failed no longer have the same options as other students in course selection. The school will make them take remedial programs. He added that only a couple of students a year didn't pass the easier Minimum Basic Skills Test.

The schools are now in the process of determining who the students are who failed and why this happened. What is known already is that a number are foreign-language-speaking and some are in special education.

School officials are also planning to focus on test taking, while examining the question of whether things will be different when the students know their diploma is on the line.

The superintendent pointed out that the implication for Princeton is not great, but that the high cutoff scores will be a problem in urban districts. The 1985 average score in Trenton, for example, was 70 in writing, 61 in reading, and 44 in math.

He stated, however, that Princeton's results are "only another facet of an issue we've worried about for years, another facet of the Winokur Report."

"Ultimately there are implications down to kindergarten or even pre-kindergarten," he said. "That's the whole issue of at-risk students."

Director Is Announced For the University Press

Walter H. Lippincott, Jr. has been appointed director of Princeton University Press.

Mr. Lippincott, director of Cornell University Press, will assume his new duties on August 1, upon the retirement of the current director, Herbert S. Bailey, Jr. Mr. Bailey is retiring after a 40-year career with the Press, the past 32 years as its director.

Prior to joining Cornell University Press as executive editor in 1981, Lippincott was editorial director of Cambridge University Press (American branch), 1974-81. He also was with Harper & Row from 1963-74, where he rose to the position of editor-in-chief of the college department. He is a graduate of Princeton University, Class of 1960.

Speaking for the trustees, Harold W. McGraw, Jr., president of Princeton University Press, said "We are very pleased indeed to welcome Mr. Lippincott, with his distinguished 22-year career in book publishing, to Princeton University Press. We look forward, under his guidance and direction, to maintaining and building the Press's high reputation for scholarly publishing, which has grown markedly under Mr. Bailey's outstanding publishing leadership over the past 32 years."

A search committee interviewed candidates over the past ten months prior to recommending the selection of Mr. Lippincott. The committee consisted of Arthur H. Thornhill Jr., chairman of Little, Brown & Co., Inc.; Aaron Lemonick, Dean of the Faculty; and Princeton Professors Robert C. Gunning and Alvin B. Kernan.

Princeton University Press, founded in 1905, now publishes approximately 150 new hard-back books and 60 new paperback reprints each year. As a separate nonprofit corporation closely tied to Princeton University, it issues works of scholarship in many fields of knowledge — in the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. Some of its major projects include The Papers of Thomas Jefferson, The Papers of Albert Einstein, The Papers of Woodrow Wilson, The Writings of Henry D. Thoreau, and The Collected Works of Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

Recent books of particular importance are Dostoevsky by Joseph Frank, Josef Hoffmann by Eduard Sekler, and QED by Richard Feynman. Many of the Press's publications have won major prizes such as Pulitzer and National Book Awards and prizes from the major scholarly associations.

Replace That Old "Energy Hog" Gas Furnace...

Stop feeding your old energy-consuming furnace — get an efficient new Trane Executive gas furnace. Now there's a gas furnace you can get excited about. One that will make you want to replace your old "Energy Hog" right now.

If you have a gas furnace with a pilot light, you could be wasting hundreds of dollars over the lifetime of your system. Fact: every hour your heating system isn't operating, the pilot light burns approximately one cubic foot of gas. This energy is wasted. And so is the money that pays for it.

The Trane Executive Gas Furnace has an alternative — the electric spark ignition. It lights the burners electrically — so you can do away with costly pilot lights forever.

Public Hearing Planned By State Housing Council

The New Jersey Council on Affordable Housing has scheduled a series of public hearings across the state to draw out public comment on the major issues facing the Council.

The Fair Housing Act of 1985 created the nine-member Council as an alternative to the extensive litigation spurred by the N.J. Supreme Court's Mount Laurel II decision. The act gives the Council primary jurisdiction over housing obligations in the state. It also charges the Council with establishing regions and adopting criteria and guidelines for determining municipal fair share of present and prospective housing need within a given region.

At the request of the Council, which has been meeting regularly since October, the Department of Community Affairs' Division of Housing and Development prepared a series of issue papers outlining crucial questions and suggesting alternatives for dealing with them.

The issue papers will be mailed next week to all of the state's 567 municipalities and to other interested parties statewide. The hearings, to be held in six locations, are scheduled for a three-week period between January 29 and February 13.

The meeting January 29 will be in the Labor Education Center, New Brunswick. It will be held from 2-5 and 7-9. Speakers' time will be limited by the numbers wishing to testify at each meeting. Everyone is invited to provide detailed written comment for the Council to study.

Persons interested in obtaining copies of the issue papers may request them by contacting Renee Reiss at the N.J. Council of Affordable Housing, 3625 Quaker Bridge Road, CN 18550, Trenton, N.J. 08650-2085; telephone 890-8900.

One to Forget for Hun: Ewing 76, Hun Five 27

"I wish we hadn't even gotten off the bus. I didn't even watch the second half."

The disconsolate speaker, Hun basketball coach Pat Kahny, had seen more than he wanted to in the first half. The first-half figures were indeed shocking: Ewing 36, Hun 10. Monday afternoon's game ended just as dismally for Hun, 76-27.

Ironically, Kahny had wanted to play a good public school to see just how good his team was and to get some measure of recognition that he felt the Raiders did not receive in defeating prep school teams. With eight victories in 11 starts, Hun has already won more games than it did last year — Kahny's first — but in Ewing they got more than they bargained for.

"We had a good game plan going in," recalled Kahny. "The right tempo. We got the ball inside, some nice open shots but we just didn't put the ball in the hole. That's what happens when you let a good team intimidate you. After we got intimidated, the roof caved in."

"We can play with the Princetons, the Nottinghams, the Montgomerys, but Ewing, McCorristin, Trenton and West Windsor — it's pretty obvious those four teams are a notch above all other schools. Those four just have too much talent."

Did Hun learn anything from its lopsided defeat? At first, Kahny replied, "absolutely nothing," but he then added, after a little more thought, "One thing it did do was to teach us a little patience against the press, but, emotionally, it's got to hurt you. Realistically, we didn't expect to come down here to win. But we did expect to play them tighter than we did."

After the game, Kahny reported that Ewing coach Emil Wandishin had told him that his team had played exceptionally well. "We played about as poorly as a team can," sighed Kahny. "The combination was a disaster."

Hun stayed close in the first period, trailing 14-6, but it all fell apart in the second when Ewing outscored the visiting Raiders, 22-4. Some of the statistics Hun hopes it will never see again: 27 turnovers, a 20 percent (9 for 44) effort from the floor and eight points from its high scorer, Keith Green.

Green, who had been averaging 22.5 points a game, picked up three fouls early in the first half and was never a factor. "He was trying to do too much," said Kahny. Bob Salasko also had eight points to tie Green for "high" scoring honors.

The Big One. Hun will try to regroup against Lawrenceville School this Wednesday in what Kahny described as "the big one." The two rivals will meet at Hun at 3:15.

"It's always been a big rivalry, at least in basketball," observed Kahny. "It's usually between the two of us in the Prep A Division." A win over the Larries would go a long way in helping Hun forget Ewing.

On Saturday evening at 8 Parents Night Hun will entertain Nottingham. ("This is a team you have to keep off the boards but I think we can play with them," said Kahny) and on Monday at 3 the Raiders will host Hamilton.

Montgomery, PDS Fall. Last week, Hun had won its eighth and ninth games by defeating Montgomery on Friday and rival Princeton Day School three days earlier.

Green ended Montgomery's upset hopes in the final period when he connected for nine of his game-high 23 to pace Hun to a 53-46 victory. Al Kirchner added 12 points for Hun and veteran Tom Jingoli contributed 10 rebounds and eight points.

Chris Miller and Rick Lloyd paced the 5-4 Cougars with 14 and 12 points respectively.

Earlier, Hun had to struggle more than it had anticipated before punching out a 54-41 victory over winless (0-6) Princeton Day School.

Kahny observed after the game that his Hun squad, playing its first game since the Hightstown Christmas tournament, was lacking rhythm and execution. He described the Hun play as "unsophisticated."

He had no complaints about Hun's performance at the foul line, however, where Hun was 20-for-29, including a perfect 8-8 by Kevin Byrne.

A 10-2 spurt ending with 3:01 left to play sealed the outcome for Hun. Green paced the victors with 21 points. Byrne finished with 10, Kirchner added eight and Jingoli six for the Raiders.

PDS Boys' Beat MK, 59-22 For First Win of Season

When it finally came, there was never a doubt.

The Princeton Day boys basketball team presented itself and first year coach Mike Herr with its first triumph of the season last Friday after, six losses. The Panthers blew out Montclair Kimberley, 59-22, at home.

The visitors were never able to score in double figures in any period, as PDS rolled to a 25-6 lead at halftime. Herr cleared his bench early, but the rout continued in the second half. Rob Chibbaro's game-high 24 points were two more than were scored by the entire MK team. Tim Howard added 12.

Unfortunately, that triumph was sandwiched by a pair of losses, 54-41 to Hun earlier in the week, and a 48-45 defeat by Hill on Saturday. PDS outscored the visitors from Pottstown, Pa. in every quarter but the second, and Hill's 14-7 advantage in that period made the difference. Chibbaro led his teammates with 17 points. The Panthers, now 1-7 on the season, will face Wardlaw this Friday away.

Against Hun, PDS shot a woeful 6 for 22 in the first half, and never did manage to catch up. The Panthers trailed by just one, 11-10 at the end of the first period, but the home team outscored PDS 15-5 in the second quarter for a 26-15 lead at the intermission.

All the damage was done at that point, as the two teams battled on fairly even terms throughout the final two periods. Chibbaro had a tough start, sinking only one of seven shots in the first half, but came on strong in the second, scoring 19 of PDS's 26 points. Don Roth and Morris Kimble had six apiece.

Soccer Showdown Sunday Mikes Oppose Hibernians

The Mikes Tavern women's soccer team has earned a berth in the Mercer County Women's Soccer League playoff championship game by defeating 3 Seasons, 5-2, in a semi-final playoff contest. Diane Kelly, a junior college All-American at Mercer County Community College, scored two goals. Debbie Smyth also scored twice and Clare Baxter scored once. Sandy Rees played an outstanding game at fullback for Mike's.

3 Seasons tallied first, six minutes into the game, but Mike's tied the score a minute later and added two more goals, to lead 3-1 at the half. Mike's recorded two additional scores in the second half to build an insurmountable 5-1 lead, and 3 Seasons closed out the scoring with eight minutes left in the game.

The Hibernians, who finished first in the regular season, defeated Trentino, 4-0, in the other semi-final playoff game, behind three goals from Elyse Eichman (the league's highest scorer), one from Princeton University's All American Linda DeBoer, and a shutout performance from goalie Dodie Colavecchio, also a Princeton player and Ivy League co-player of the year.

The Hibernians (17-1) will meet regular-season second-place Mike's Tavern (15-2-2) on Sunday at noon at Mercer County Park's soccer field 3. The teams met three times during the regular season, with the Hibernians winning twice, by 6-2 and 2-1 margins, and Mike's winning once, 1-0.

BUSINESS

27% Earnings Increase Reported by NJ National

New Jersey National Corporation has reported record earnings for the fifth consecutive year, according to John H. Walther, chairman and chief executive officer.

According to preliminary unaudited figures, for the year ended December 31, income before extraordinary item increased 27 percent to $18.9 million from $14.8 million in 1984. Per share income before extraordinary item rose to $3.22 from $2.88 for an increase of 12 percent.

During the fourth quarter, net income rose 22 percent to $5.4 million from $4.4 million during the fourth quarter of 1984. On a per share basis, this represents a 16 percent increase to $.89 from $.77. Fourth quarter figures do not reflect any tax loss carryforward resulting from a planned securities sale in 1980 for either year, as this extraordinary item was fully recognized by June 1984.

Mr. Walther attributed the Corporation's record performance to the market's continued strong demand for New Jersey National's commercial and consumer loan services, plus increases in both the net interest margin and non-interest income. Per share figures reflect the five percent stock dividend paid to shareholders on May 21, 1985.

At the year-end '85, the Corporation's assets totaled $2.0 billion, a 19 percent increase over the $1.7 billion reported a year earlier. Total loans rose 13 percent to $1.3 billion from $1.1 billion in 1984, while total deposits increased 16 percent to $1.8 billion as compared to $1.5 billion in 1984.

In his announcement, Mr. Walther cited the following among New Jersey National's 1985 achievements:

- Increase in the common stock price to $34.50 at December 31, 1985, from $21.90 (adjusted for the five percent stock dividend) a year earlier - an increase of 58 percent;
- Payment of the previously mentioned five percent stock dividend;

- The September opening of New Jersey National's Corporate Center in Ewing Township, consolidating the executive staff, commercial banking division, brokerage services and trust division under one roof;

- Opening of New Jersey National Bank's sixth regional lending office in Short Hills;

- Opening of new branch offices in Mercer, Ocean, and Salem Counties, and receipt of approval to open additional facilities in Middlesex, Monmouth and Somerset Counties;

- Significant expansion of the Bank's retail product line to include products like the toll-free LOAN HOT LINE and the Red Circle (half-pay) Mortgage; and

- Celebration of New Jersey National's first year of operation in southern New Jersey, following the acquisition of Citizens United Bank, N.A.

Correction

Town Topics misstated the length of Township Mayor Winthrop Pike's term of office in a January 8 article summarizing his New Year's Day remarks.

Mayor Pike is beginning his fifth consecutive term, having been first sworn into the office on January 1, 1982, four years ago.

Correction

A photograph of John I. Merritt III, director of communications in Princeton University's development office, was misidentified in last week's TOWN TOPICS' People in the News as that of Robert J. Merritt, 57 Hodge Road.

OPTION C IN CONCEPT: This sketch by the landscape architectural firm that prepared three options for development of the former University lands in the northwest Township shows the low-density residential development that is favored by the developers and by the Planning Board. The little diamond in one lot south of Drakes Corner Road is a cemetery, while the square and dotted line on the other side represent a water tower and easement. Among other questions, Planning Board members asked if there would be a homeowners' association that would be responsible for maintenance of the little cemetery.

Development

was purchased last year by a Houston, Texas, partnership for $3.3 million.

Although current zoning permits 82 residential four-acre lots and the settlement of the litigation with the University called for 144 half-acre lots clustered, the Houston partnership favors a large lot development of 50 single-family homes with lot sizes averaging 6.7 acres. The Houston partnership consists of Cheung Chu, a mainland China native who graduated in 1964 from Princeton University's School of Architecture, and John F. (Ted) Preston, a Houston real estate developer.

Mr. Chu's daughter is a senior at Princeton University, and he read about the settlement of the suit with the Township and the Planning Board in the Princeton Alumni Weekly, his partner told the Planning Board last week. Real estate having slowed somewhat in Houston, the two men made a trip to Princeton together two years ago to look over the property. Mr. Chu, or those he has hired to assist him in formulating the development proposals, have met on numerous occasions with the Township engineering and planning staff as well as with the neighbors over the past year.

Because of its woods, steep slopes and "ridge" characteristics, the property has considerable development constraints and is considered among the most sensitive in the Township. In summarizing his views on the three proposals submitted, Planning Director Duggan Kimball termed the conventional 82-lot layout "the least attractive" because it would cover areas in the tract that are not viable for septic systems.

It is a goal of the Planning Board to avoid environmental damage by not extending public sewers in that area, Mr. Kimball said. But similarly the character of the soils and presence of diabase just below the surface preclude satisfactory percolation tests in many spots.

Mr. Kimball termed the semi-clustered 144 half-acre lots stipulated in the settlement agreement with Princeton University "somewhat superior," although this layout too would utilize the entire tract and put more pressure on Drakes Corner Road. The additional units would involve the most clearing of land and the largest amount of impervious surface for laying in public water and public sewer lines, he said.

He called Option C, the large layout for 50 homes "the most attractive," offering the least disturbance to the sensitive area and the greatest degree of suitability to on-site septic systems. This proposal would not alter the character of Drakes Corner and Province Line Roads, and the deed restrictions incorporated into the plan provides "some" preservation of the area, Mr. Kimball said.

Many lots questionable. However, he also cautioned that a six-home cul-de-sac south of Drakes Corner Road near the Woodfield Reservation was the most "unsuitable" area for development and had been considered for Township open space. In addition he felt that many of the lots were "very questionable" for septic systems and recommended that there be an intermediate review before formal site plan and subdivision application at which time the applicant would provide additional information on percolation, soil logs, vegetation and stream corridors.

Such a review would offer an opportunity for the Township to work with the developer on layout C before proceeding with detailed engineering, he suggested.

In addition to suitability for septic systems, the other major point of discussion concerned the road systems. Option C proposes three cul-de-sacs, the longest of which would be accessible from Province Line Road and serve 23 lots, almost half the development. Twenty-one lots would be accessible from Drakes Corner Road, either directly or from a small cul-de-sac off Drakes Corner Road. The remaining six lots would be accessible from another small cul-de-sac south of Drakes Corner Road.

Neighbors were virtually unanimous in requesting that another access to Cherry Valley Road be provided for the 23-home cul-de-sac. Neighbors were also concerned about the numerous accidents that presently occur at the intersection of Province Line Road and Cherry Valley Road which, under this proposal, would be receiving additional traffic.

Both Drakes Corner and Province Line Roads are presently 16-feet wide. In his report on the development proposal, Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser suggested that Drakes

Corner be widened slightly to 18 feet to let emergency vehicles pass more easily. In addition, he proposed that the applicant pay its fair share for improvements to the Drakes Corner-Province Line intersection as well as improvements at The Great Road intersection and the straightening of the sharp curve in Cherry Valley Road.

Pretty Brook '85. James Britt, attorney for the Houston partners, told the Planning Board the development has been titled "Pretty Brook '85," because "Pretty Brook" was the name assigned by the University to its 1980 proposal for a 165-lot subdivision, which was denied by the Planning Board. The three-year settlement agreement reached between the Planning Board and Township Committee and the University permitting the 144-lot cluster will expire in October of this year. Twenty-five acres of the original 360-acre tract were sold to Dennis Fill of Squibb, he said.

"I am before you in an unusual capacity," Mr. Britt said, "to ask for less than the maximum development possible." Mr. Preston also made a plea for favorable consideration by the Planning Board, saying, "I feel that among the alternatives, Option C makes the most sense, would protect the environment and have the least detrimental impact. I hope it will gain your support."

Carler Van Dyke, a landscape architect retained by the Houston partnership, made a plea for not widening Drakes Corner and Province Line Roads and for keeping a rougher, less permanent tar and chip surface to these roads instead of the usual smooth asphalt of several inch thickness. "We have a great fear of through traffic," Mr. Van Dyke said, adding that a reduced eartway, with twists and turns and a rough surface all help to reduce speed.

"We're asking for a character to this development and a roadway design detail that fits into it."

Members of the Planning Board praised the overall concept for preserving much of the land but asked the developer to consider giving up the 12 lots south of Drakes Corner Road or perhaps even donating that area to Woodfield Reservation. They also concurred with neighbors that an access onto Cherry Valley Road ought to be considered, which in turn would require a reconfiguration of the site plan.

Neighbors applauded David Savage, who said it "seemed a shame to load all the focus and all the traffic on Drakes Corner Road when there are other opportunities." Neighbors also seemed to concur with George Easter who said that he had opposed the University's initial application but was supportive of this one, "at least in concept," but he also said he opposed an increase in road width to 18 feet.

As one Township resident remarked resignedly as she put on her coat to go home, "I hate to see that area developed at all. But I suppose if it has to be, this is as good as we are likely to get."

CAPITAL BEDDING COMPANYU.S. Hwy. 130, 12 1/2 minutes south of Hightstown
Between Yardville & Bordentown. 11IN HOPEWELL there is a large loft where fine reproductions of oil paintings are lifted off their paper and impregnated onto artists' canvas under an atmosphere of pressure. They are then stretched by hand over wooden stretchers to hang as is, or framed. The results are stunning pieces of art work as rich in texture and color as the oil from which the reproductions were made.

You are invited to come and see this extraordinary transformation in progress for yourself and, if you've always wanted a Monet but couldn't afford one, you may come away with the perfect compromise.

ROBIN WALLACK, senior sales associate, was honored at the year-end awards meeting of Peyton Associates for her extraordinary achievement in sales during 1985. Tod Peyton commended Mrs. Wallack for generating a record number of sales in all price categories. As many long-term professionals in real estate are aware, there is a tendency to specialize in one category of property; Mrs. Wallack has proved her familiarity and professional skill in every category by selling at an outstanding level in every range from small homes to large luxury residential properties, as well as land transactions and commercial business. Mrs. Wallack, who for several years led sales in the Peyton office, has consistently been one of the top real estate associates in the Princeton area. She has recently negotiated the sale of a major office research property to be developed in Princeton Township.

Built in the 1700's as a carriage house and beautifully maintained, modern conveniences have been added. HOW TO KILL A TREE
Part 1
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

We, at WOODWINDS, really don't want you to "Kill a Tree", but obviously, many tree killings are unwitting accidents. Let's examine how and why this happens. One way begins at the nursery, where healthy, strong stemmed, well rooted trees with take me home appeal are offered. Some of them may be genetically unable to endure the climate where the purchaser intends to put them. Always make sure to check the zone where the species is most happy.

Even if the tree does not have a climatic strike against it, there are still several ways you could kill a tree with adverse conditions. For instance, pine trees will not live long planted in the shade of Maples. If you have overhead wires around, the utility man on his cherry picker will likely hack away part of it in a manner that mars its beauty and may bring on decay. Prospects are never bright for trees planted in narrow strips along sidewalks and curbs. If delivery trucks don't get them, restricted root zone will.

You can also kill a tree by planting it with its crown (where the trunk meets the root) a cozy five inches down into the soil. Many think such planting adds to the trees comfort and stability, while, in fact, it has less chance to survive. Another form is to dig the hole deeper than necessary and incorporate a huge amount of peat moss or humus as backfill. This way the tree can be planted at proper depth, but, in time the soil will settle the tree into a depression. In winter, water can collect in the basin, freeze and crust the cambium layer at the base of the tree. The true cause of such mysterious deaths may never be detected.

Don't forget to check with WOODWINDS (924-3500) about our Annual Maintenance Program for your property.

Princeton Is Home to Large Subculture Of Serious, Amateur Chamber Musicians

Princeton abounds in musicians and music-making — people who play for fun as well as those who make a living by performance.

Within the musical umbrella there is a large and very active subculture devoted to playing chamber music. This includes the violinists, viola players and cellists who get together in one another's homes on a regular basis to play string quartets and trios. They play for relaxation as well as stimulation, and the relationships formed in the course of 10, 15 and even 25 years are intense and as intimate as marriage.

Anne Florey, who plays both violin and viola, has played quartets with John Winterbottom, a serious cellist, for 25 years. Dan Herman has been the first violinist for this group for 15 years, and Schweick von Goeler, also a violinist/viola player, is the fourth member.

But Anne will also play with Leon Vieland, another serious cellist, and with Al Abrams and his wife Linda, both violinists. Sometimes her husband Klaus, who took up the cello after they were married, will take part. Mrs. Florey played frequently in another combination that included Mr. Abrams, who plays more intensively than most, Barbara Sands, a pianist and fine musician who took up the cello because she wanted to be a part of the special music-making that goes on in string quartets, and Joan Mills, another very active player.

Extensive Network. Still another regular group involves Mr. Vieland, cello; David Southgate, violin/viola; Paul Weimer, violin; and Curt Carlson, violin. Mr. Southgate in turn plays regularly with Charles Stenard, cello, Sarah Hollister, viola, and Anne Seltzer, violin, and each of these players have others with whom they play on a regular basis.

The network is extensive, and string players tend to group and re-group according to the availability of the players and the requirements of the music. There are all levels of ability and varying degrees of interest and emphasis — either in working up a piece to the point it is "worth listening to," as Mr. Southgate puts it, or stumbling through something slightly beyond the reach of the group.

"It's similar to playing bridge. For a long-lasting group it is necessary that all play with similar ability."

As in marriage, compatibility and the ability to listen well are key. "You get to know the people you play with well," Mrs. Florey observes. "And it is very interesting psychologically, not to mention musically. You become very aware whether people listen to each other or not."

"You also have to be careful to play with people on your own level. It's similar to playing bridge. For a long-lasting group it is necessary that all play with similar ability."

To Avoid Mismatch. "It is such an intimate thing," says Curt Carlson. "You get to know very quickly who is compatible and who isn't." Linda Abrams, who manages Princeton Pro Musica and last year's Summer Chamber Concerts, adds, "Some people find their own level and are honest about their ability. Sometimes there is a mismatch, and when that happens it is very uncomfortable for everyone."

And as in marriage, someone dropping out or moving away presents a serious rupture in the relationship. For Mrs. Florey, it has happened four times in 24 years, and finding and agreeing upon a replacement is a "delicate" matter for all concerned. If the group is lucky the substitute who is called upon to pinch-hit will be acceptable to all and the group will continue without losing a week, but more often someone is invited to join on a sort of trial basis, and there are off-stage negotiations by phone. The whole process is equally painful for the person on trial.

Some groups avoid the steady relationship and rely on spur-of-the-moment phone calls, Mrs. Florey says. Some want to work very hard on their technique and ask a professional like Jayn Rosenfeld to come and coach them for a number of sessions. Ms. Rosenfeld is a flutist who teaches and performs with a New York group, but she also has a knack for coaching chamber music ensembles, which she does professionally for the Westminster Choir College Conservatory.

"There is something wonderful about playing with four or five people on string instruments ... a magical thing that you can't replicate elsewhere."

Some groups spend all evening on one or perhaps two quartets, others will play three or four. Some do not want to venture further into the 20th century than Debussy or Ravel. The first violinist, as the one with the most difficult part, usually sets the evening's program, which will typically begin with a warm-up quartet by Haydn or Mozart, then go on to something a little more challenging like early or middle Beethoven or late Brahms and end with something a little bit lighter — Mendelssohn or Schubert.

Chary of Pianists. String players are purists, notes Mrs. Abrams, and many prefer chamber music to playing in an orchestra precisely because they want to be able to hear themselves and each other and enjoy the challenge of achieving the kind of balance that makes four sound as one. For this reason they stick to the string quartet literature and only occasionally ask a pianist to join them.

"Pianists, if they are not sensitive, have a tendency to drown out strings," Mrs. Abrams notes. "It requires a special sensitivity to strings and to balance, and so many pianists are used to playing alone." Frank Taplin, Pat Ansbach and Olga Gorelli are among the area pianists who play regularly with string groups.

For some string players, playing chamber music is more than a hobby or pleasant pastime. Al Abrams, Curt Carlson, professional cellist Joan Thompson and Philadelphia viola player Dori Loder will go off to adult music camps in New Hampshire or Vermont and play 15 hours a day for a week. Others take part in weekend get-togethers devoted just to playing quartets for nine hours at a stretch. A non-playing spouse has to be sympathetic to the whole situation, Linda Abrams observes. The Abrams met on just such a chamber music marathon in New Hampshire.

Husband-Wife Players. There are some couples, in addition to the Abrams and the Floreys, in which both husband and wife play. Cecile Herman, a pianist, plays in chamber groups both with and apart from her husband Dan. So do the von Goelers, Schweick (violin-viola) and Adelheid (cello), who enjoy organizing sextets and octets.

String players are emerging too in the next generation. All three von Goeler daughters play. Anne Seltzer's daughter Marna is a violinist and the Florey's son Peter a cellist. Paul Weimer's daughter plays in the Philadelphia Orchestra.

A sociological profile of the amateur Princeton string player emerges. If a man, he is likely to be a scientist — a physicist, chemist or mathematician (there is a pocket of historians who are the exception), and to work at or be retired from RCA, FMC, Squibb, Western Electric or Bell Labs (Princeton University for the historians, the Institute for one mathematician).

He also had music in the genes or the parenting (Leon Vieland's father, for instance, played viola in the New York Philharmonic, his uncle was a composer); and with one or two exceptions, he lives on the east side of Princeton (Hickory Court, Hemlock Circle, Clover Lane, Random Road).

These things hold true for his female counterpart, although she is likely to be a school

Two-Month Delay Announced For Re-opening of McCarter

Edward E. Matthews, president of the Board of Trustees of McCarter Theatre, Center for the Performing Arts, and Alison Harris and Nagle Jackson, managing and artistic directors, have announced the opening of McCarter's 1986 spring season will be delayed two months.

Currently under a major two-phase $6 million dollar renovation, the theatre originally was scheduled to complete Phase One and reopen on March 3. The new opening will now be May 1.

The primary cause of the delayed opening stems not from construction delays (the work has been on schedule to date) but rather from unforeseen delays in obtaining necessary building permits. Last June, McCarter submitted a set of building plans to the State of New Jersey. However, due to procedural changes and a shortage of staff, the State was unable to review the plans within the anticipated time frame.

Additionally, there were some differences of interpretation of the Building Code that had to be resolved. As a result, the theatre did not receive some of its permits until as much as five months later than McCarter and the contractors had planned. This delay has resulted in making the targeted March 3 date an impossibility.

News of The THEATRES

Ms. Harris stated, "Although we are disappointed to be missing the original March 3 date, we are pleased to be opening as early as May 1, given the extraordinary delays we ran into with the building permits. Because the new theatre will be air-conditioned, we are able to salvage most of the events planned for the 1985/86 season by running later in the spring. We expect the 'new' McCarter to last another half century so it is critical that we do the best job possible now even if it means a two month delay in opening."

The originally scheduled three play mainstage drama season has now been revised in to a two play season. Following the Princeton University Triangle Club show (which, 35 years ago in 1930, opened the original theatre), the "new" McCarter will present Shakespeare's As You Like It, directed by associate artistic director Robert Lanchester.

Immediately following the Triangle Club's Reunions performances will be the world premiere of the comedy-drama The Boys Next Door, written by Tom Griffin and directed by Nagle Jackson. Jules Feiffer's Little Murders, originally scheduled for the third play, will be presented in a future season. As You Like It will run

May 14-June 1, and The Boys Next Door will run June 12-June 29.

Commenting on the delayed opening, artistic director Nagle Jackson stated, "While a two-month delay is frustrating, it is no more than that, and when I think of the one- and two-year delays which some of my colleagues have suffered, I count us most blessed. More important, the delays of the spring of '86 will be quickly forgotten and are of no consequence to the many, many years of service which the new McCarter will provide to our growing constituency. There is a poetry in these circumstances; how fitting that the Triangle Club should reopen the facility created for them in 1930!"

Drama subscribers have been notified of the schedule changes in a detailed letter; they may choose to receive a refund of the Little Murders portion of their subscription price or donate that amount to McCarter's capital campaign or to the McCarter Associates for annual operating expenses.

A letter was also sent to the music subscribers, outlining venue changes, as some music events have been relocated to Alexander Hall on the University campus. McCarter patrons who have purchased single tickets to any event will be notified by mail or phone.

The Marilyn Horne Concert to benefit McCarter is still scheduled for Monday, March 3 at 8 p.m., but will be held in Alexander Hall. Martin Katz will be Miss Horne's pianist. A special $100 front orchestra ticket price ($35 tax-deductible) includes a pre-concert dinner hosted by members of the Marilyn Horne Benefit Committee, as well as a post-concert champagne supper sponsored by the Nassau Inn, with Miss Horne as honored guest. Black tie is optional.

There are also concert tickets available for $50, $35, $30 and $25. Honorary chairmen for the Marilyn Horne Benefit Committee are The Honorable Thomas H. Kean, Governor of the State of New Jersey, and Mrs. Kean; co-chairmen are Mrs. Richard D. Hargrave and Mrs. Robert F. Johnston.

For information and reservations for the party tickets, call the McCarter Associates office at 452-6122. For other ticket information, call the McCarter box office at 452-5200.

There will be a 1986 Spring Dance subscription series, featuring two companies performing in the new McCarter. The Pilobolus Dance Theatre will perform Monday and Tuesday, May 19-20, and May 21 for single-ticket buyers, the avant-garde Japanese company Sankai Juku will perform Monday and Tuesday, June 16 and 17.

Entertainment Evening Set To Help Players Pay Rent

"A Benefit Evening of Song" will be held on Saturday, January 25, to help keep the Princeton Community Players in Princeton.

A theatre group that has been part of Princeton's community profile for more than half a century, PCP was able to resume production in the theatre at 171 Broadmead this Fall after two years without a Princeton location at its disposal. However, although rent for the University-owned facility is "quite reasonable," proceeds from ticket sales barely cover production costs. Thus, the Players are faced with the need to raise funds to "pay the rent."

The brainchild of Susan Tapper, a local director/actress who has worked often with PCP over the past ten years, the benefit will feature performances by a number of "friends of PCP," including Roo Brown, Liz Fillo, Milton Lyon, Brent Monahan and The Boudinotes.

Roo Brown and Liz Fillo have both been active in Princeton performing circles for many years, including PJ&B, Inn Cabaret and PCP productions. They have both performed on stage in New York, and together, have presented their musical night club act in a number of New York clubs.

Milton Lyon, well-known to Princeton audiences as the director and conductor of PJ&B musicals at McCarter Theatre since the early sixties, is also a vocal coach, musical performer, and has directed in regional theatre all over the country as well as in New York.

Brent Monahan, novelist, TV script writer, singer and voice teacher, has performed in three PJ&B musicals and has acted and directed for PCP. He was also co-producer of the Nassau Inn Dinner Theatre in 1982-83.

The Boudinotes are an a cappella singing group consisting of 16 area women. They are now in their tenth year of performing for private and corporate events on the East Coast. Members include Derry Light, Marty Salkin, and Priscilla Treadwell, well-known to Princeton area theatre audiences as actresses as well as singers.

"A Benefit Evening of Song" will begin at 8 p.m. on January 25 in the theatre at 171 Broadmead, and will include a wine-and-cheese reception with the performers immediately following. Donations are $15 per person and reservations may be made by calling 921-6314.

New Manager Named By June Opera Festival

The June Opera Festival has announced the appointment of Steven B. Jordan as manager.

Until 1984 Mr. Jordan served as the founding managing director of the Kahilu Theatre Foundation in Hawaii. He was most recently company administrator and booking director at the San Francisco Opera Center and the San Francisco Opera Association.

Peter Westergaard, one of the directors of the June Opera Festival, noted that "Mr. Jordan brings to the festival a rich and varied background in performance management. His work with the San Francisco Opera and in Hawaii will serve us and him well as we embark on our third season." Last year the festival's season featured performances of Mozart's Don Giovanni and Benjamin Britten's Albert Herring.

The June Opera Festival, an independent, professional, non-profit organization, performs operas in English with an ensemble of professional singers and an orchestra made up of members of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra. Its fully staged productions, which all originate with the festival, take place in the 890-seat theater of The Lawrenceville School's Allan P. Kirby Arts Center.

The audience is encouraged to picnic before performances on the spacious grounds surrounding the theater. Michael Pratt and Mr. Westergaard are the festival's directors.

Boatswain, George Gallup; and Carpenter's Mate, John Woodward.

Interested Gilbert and Sullivan addicts are welcome to sing and enjoy Pinafore with the group. There is a modest fee to cover music and refreshments. A full orchestra will be on hand.

Mr. Jones, who will return to Princeton for Pinafore, was formerly the assistant to the president and then the public relations director for Westminster Choir College.

Trinity Cathedral Site Of Concert by Organist

Barbara Thomson, Voorhees Chapel organist at Rutgers University, will appear in concert at Trinity Cathedral, Trenton, on Sunday at 3:30. Sponsored by the Cathedral's Society for the Performing Arts, the concert is free.

She has given concerts at the Riverside Church and St. Michael's Church, New York City; the National Presbyterian Center and the Kennedy Center, Washington, D.C.; the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen, Baltimore; and the Krishem Church Music Conference in Philadelphia.

She was guest soloist at the 1980 National Convention of the American Society of University Composers, the Festival Maria Schutz in Austria, and the Cathedral of Notre Dame, Paris. For her program at Trinity, Miss Thomson has chosen works by Johann Sebastian Bach, Francois Couperin, Charles-Marie Widor, and Max Reger.

For further information call the Cathedral office at 392-3805. The Cathedral is located at 801 West State Street, Trenton, and there is parking on the premises.

Festival Sets Fund Goal To Raise $86,000 by June

The June Opera Festival, having completed a second successful season, is embarking on its 1986 fund drive.

Warren Wood III, vice president, general counsel, and secretary of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, was elected chairman of the fund drive at a recent meeting of the festival's trustees. The festival hopes to raise a total of $86,000 by the time the season opens at the end of June.

According to Jack Ellis, president of the board, "With an ambitious goal ahead of us, we sought a chairman who loves opera and knows the funding community — we're delighted that Mr. Wood has agreed to take on this responsibility." The New Jersey State Council on the Arts awarded the festival $56,100 for 1986, more than five times the award for the 1985 season, and one of the more significant grants awarded by the arts council this year.

The June Opera Festival was founded in 1983 by Michael Pratt and Peter Westergaard to present, in English, new productions of operas intended for intimate theaters. Merrill Lynch and Co. Inc., has provided major grants for the last three years.

Mr. Wood, a resident of Princeton, is a graduate of Princeton University and the University of Virginia School of Law. He has been a supporter of the June Opera Festival since its founding, and his wife, Marcia, has been a member of the chorus during both seasons. "The festival has received substantial support from both institutions and individual donors, but this year I am hoping to broaden the support we get from the corporate community," explained Mr. Wood. "The festival adds a tremendous amount to the cultural liveliness of New Jersey — the corporations who do business in the state and who have employees living here should do as much as they can to support this fine organization."

Mr. Wood succeeds Thomas P. Cook, retired partner of the law firm Smith, Cook, Lambert & Miller, who chaired the June Opera Festival's 1985 fund drive.

Woodwinds to Perform Sunday at Choir College

Westminster Winds will present a concert Sunday at 7 in Williamson Hall on the Choir College campus.

Members of the ensemble include Janice Holms, flute; Jeanine Roberts, clarinet; Richard Rosolino, horn; Melissa Bohl, oboe; and Edwin Alexander, bassoon. They will perform the woodwind quintet by 19th-century French composer Paul Taffanel, and the sextet for woodwind quintet and piano by Gordon Jacobs. This sextet was written in memory of the great British horn player Aubrey Brain, the father of horn-player Dennis Brain.

Janice Homs, coordinator of the Conservatory ensemble program and instructor in flute, organized Westminster Winds for their first area performance last summer.

For the Jacob sextet, the group will be joined by pianist Gloria Marcus. Miss Marcus, a new member of the Conservatory faculty, has studied at the University of North Carolina and the Manhattan School of Music.

Tickets are available at the door at $4 for adults, $2 for students and senior citizens. For more information call Westminster Conservatory office at 921-7104 or 921-7100, extension 260.

Program of New Music Set by Student Ensemble

Compass, a student new-music ensemble at Princeton University, will present a concert on Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Alexander Hall. Sponsored by the University's Music Department, admission is free.

The program will feature Steve Scott's Rainbows, a composition for ten players 'bowing' a grand piano with long and short bows. Members of the group will spread out through the hall for two improvisational pieces, one using an array of live electronic devices. Also included will be Luciano Berio's O King, a work for chamber ensemble written in response to the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr.

Two new works by graduate student Doug Henderson will be premiered, and a minimalist piece by Jon Gibson, of the Philip Glass Ensemble, will be heard. Rounding out the program will be Alban Berg's Four Pieces for Clarinet and Piano.

Landscape Architect Focus of Firestone Show

A major exhibition of the work of landscape architect Beatrix Jones Farrand will be on public display in the Exhibitions Gallery at Firestone Library from January 18 through February 28.

The only woman among the founders of the American Society of Landscape Architects, established in 1899, Farrand was a successful professional whose career spanned the years 1891-1949.

Designer of many private gardens, including those of J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller, she was also a principal landscape architect for a number of college campuses. In addition to Princeton, these include Harvard, Yale, the University of Chicago, Vassar, Oberlin, California Institute of Technology, and Occidental College in Los Angeles.

Farrand was associated with Princeton from 1912, when she was first hired to landscape the Graduate College, until 1943.

She landscaped most of the western campus north of Spelman Halls and sections around the Chapel and Eno and Guyot. Today, about 50 percent of her Princeton landscaping is still visible, but it covers a sizable portion of the campus.

Her philosophy was to use plantings to accentuate and complement architectural features rather than to conceal or distract from them. Hallmarks of her campus landscapes include extensive use of native species; trees in open spaces and vines and climbers against walls, rather than massed shrubs or hedges; walks and paths both dramatic and functional; and a mix of deciduous and evergreen varieties calculated to keep the campus looking good throughout the academic year.

The exhibit comes to Princeton from Harvard University, where it was on display during December.

Focus of PAA Lecture Is "Public Art Today"

Edward G. Schmidt and Harriet Senie will address the topic, "Perspectives: Public Art Today," in the second of the Guggenheim Series lectures at the Princeton Art Association on Sunday, January 26 at 8 p.m.

Mr. Schmidt, a painter, is head of the mural atelier at the New York Academy of Art. He is currently involved in work on a 200-foot long mural for the Clos de Pegase Winery in California, designed by Michael Graves.

Ms. Senie, presently the director of museum studies and associate professor at City College, New York, has written and lectured widely on the subject of public art. She wrote the cover story for Art News on the Richard Serra "Tilted Arc" controversy and testified at the hearing for removal of the sculpture.

The lecture will be held at the PAA studios, 45 Stockton Street. Admission is free. For more information, call 921-9173.

The new edition of the Volunteer Opportunities Directory prepared by the Princeton Area Council of Community Services is available.

The directory lists a broad range of available volunteer positions in human service organizations in the area. The Council supports voluntarism as a vital force in improving the quality of life in area communities and as a means for individuals to discover and develop natural abilities and interests. According to Joyce Edwards, assistant director of the Council, "It's not at all unusual for people to change careers as a result of experience in volunteer positions."

The directory assists individuals in locating those organizations and positions which most closely meet their interests.

Hockey Team Reverses Slide, Defeats Yale and Brown; Now Should Be Able to Capture ECAC Playoff Spot Again

Now that's more like it. Just when everybody was wondering what had gone wrong with the Princeton men's hockey team this season, the "Tigers" went out last weekend and played superlative back-to-back games. It was difficult to believe you were looking at a team that was 6-10-1 coming into the weekend, and riding a two-game losing streak. All the rosy predictions at the start of the season had wilted.

Perhaps, a Yale squad, rated second in the East behind Boston College by one sports bureau, had written off the Tigers as well. The Elis came in to Baker Rink Friday night having lost only one ECAC Division I game in six starts. They left with their second loss, ambushed, 3-1, by a Princeton team playing its best hockey since a 4-2 triumph over Cornell in the opening game of the season.

Hardly had the euphoria died down Friday night than the question arose about a possible letdown against a weak Brown sextet the following evening, similar to the one against Colgate in November. Coach Jim Higgins' skaters answered that with a resounding "no," blowing out the Bruins, 9-0. It was the first shutout recorded by the Tigers in four years (see picture caption), and the first against Brown in 26 years. No fewer than three goalies had a hand in it.

Certainly having the home ice was a major factor in the

TIGERS FLATTEN BROWN'S GOALIES: Princeton sent Brown's starting goalie to the bench after he allowed six goals, and his replacement, Bob Naegele, didn't fare much better, allowing three scores and winding up underneath Tim Driscoll in third period action. The 9-0 shutout by Tigers was their first since a 1-0 overtime win against Minnesota-Duluth in the 1980-81 season. (W.L. Bill Allen photo) pair of victories, Princeton has always had trouble winning on the road, especially against the better teams. However, a shake-up in the lines also proved worthwhile.

Princeton had been giving away too much when its third and fourth lines were on the ice, so sophomore Kelly Szauner was moved from defense to center the fourth line between Tim Driscoll and Allan Gray. Bill Brady, Todd Ladda and Joe Ross now comprise the third line. The move paid immediate dividends as both Brady and Driscoll tallied twice against Brown. Pat Brodeur, John Rocco and Tim Oshier make up the first line, and Danni Titus, John Messuri and Dave Umland the second. Two weeks of exams will next occupy Princeton, which will return to action Sunday, January 26 at 2 p.m. against Merrimack. Following that come 10 more Division I con-seconds left in the period, and 28 seconds into the second, Yale tied the score with the Orange and Black still a man down.

However, the Tigers did not falter, and responded with a power play goal of their own at 1:04. Titus took a pass from Messuri and rifled the puck past Yale goalie Mike Schwalb. Fred Hnat added an insurance tally at 7:48 of the third, as the Tigers continued their solid performance.

Goalie Dave Marotta had the kind of standout performance he was noted for last year, stopping 30 of 31 shots. Yale's Schwalb made 36 saves.

No Letdown against Brown. Ideas of a letdown Saturday night against the Bruins were quickly dispelled when Rocco tests on the next five weekends, just four of them at home.

These will all be return engagements, and if Higgins' men can again capture at least half, they should lock up a playoff spot. Realistically seventh place, where they now are, is about as high as Princeton can expect to go. Cornell, in sixth, is not out of reach, but Princeton would need to beat the Big Red in Ithaca, plus pull off a couple of other upsets, to have any hope of overtaking it.

Three Solid Periods of Play. For perhaps the first time this season, the Tigers played three full periods without a letup. And when they had reason to falter early in the second period, they didn't.

The first period was scoreless until less than three minutes remained. At that point passes by Rocco and Cliff Abrecht set up Oshier with the game's first goal at 17:06. The lead did not last long. Messuri took a foolish penalty with 17

One of the most amazing college football teams of all time was Army in 1944. No major-college team in history ever dominated their opponents the way Army did that year -- beating such teams as Notre Dame 59-0, North Carolina 46-0 and Pitt 69-7. In all, Army averaged 56 points per game that season while holding their opponents to an average of just 4 points per game. That means that, on the average, their margin of victory was 52 points per game -- a record that's never been topped.

Here's a basketball fact. When the great Pete Maravich played college basketball at LSU, he amazingly scored almost half the points made by his entire team one season. For the 1968-69 season, the entire LSU team scored just over 2300 total points, while Maravich himself got over 1100!

I bet you didn't know that many health insurance plans including Blue Cross - Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

Oddly enough, a team once won the national championship in major-college football even though they didn't even win their own conference championship! -- Minnesota was voted national champ in 1936 but they finished second in the Big 10 Conference that year to Northwestern. Strange, but true.

Carril's Improving Quintet Defeats Dartmouth, Harvard, Ties Penn for League Lead, But Don't Get Excited Yet

It's far too early to get very excited about the Princeton basketball team, which with Penn sits atop the Ivy basketball standings at the moment. But give this Tiger team credit for turning around what had been a slow and painful start to its season. A 51-50 squeaker over Dartmouth Friday night and a 77-44 pasting of Harvard the following evening have given Princeton its best start in the league race in three years. It has also given this improving quintet, a loser of five of its first seven contests, a modest four-game win streak. Princeton has not lost since the opening round of the Fiesta Bowl Classic, and has pushed its overall record over the .500 mark, 7-6, for the first time since the opening game.

It's been a team effort, and a seven-man team at that. Pete Carril has been able to shuffle substitutes in and out when the situation has called for a change and not suffer any loss of talent. Alan Williams, John Thompson, Joe Scott, Mike Harnum, Bob Scrabis, Dave Orlandini and Aaron Belz have all had a hand in the squad's recent success.

Perhaps Williams deserves the most credit for his recent surge in scoring. During the four-game win streak he has scored 17, 27, 19 and 16 points — far above the 11 he had been averaging. The team has needed a consistent scorer.

Another plus has been the fine passing of Thompson. He was credited with eight assists against Dartmouth and picked up six more in the Harvard game. He is rebounding well, and getting his share of steals, and needs only to work on his shooting.

SURROUNDED: Princeton's Ted Gobillot found himself surrounded by four Harvard players as he went up for this shot late in the second half of Saturday's contest. However, the Crimson players were nowhere to be seen most of the night, as Tigers rolled to a 77-44 triumph. (W.L. Bill Allen photo)

So the Tigers have passed their first test, defeating And the Orange and Black will face three of the tougher Ivy teams away later this month and early February. Friday, January 31, Princeton will be at Ithaca to face Cornell. Saturday, February 1 it will meet Columbia in New York.

and then play Penn in Philadelphia the following Tuesday.

Those three contests will give a much better indication of this team's progress. Penn will face the same two teams away at the same time, so more will also be known about the strength of the favorite in this title chase.

Harvard Humbled. Harvard had its best chance ever at a league title a year ago, beating both Princeton and Penn on the road for the first time in the history of the league. However, it fell apart late in the season, and ended in a tie for fourth.

scored Princeton's first short-handed goal of the season with just 99 seconds gone in the game. Brady and Driscoll each followed with their first of two later in the period, and Princeton was off and running.

Power play goals by Messuri and Abrecht sandwiched around a score by Oshier highlighted the second. Abrecht's at 10:28 sent Brown's starting goalie, Michel Bayard to the bench.

His replacement, Bob Naegele kept the Tigers at bay for rest of the second and until late in the third. Then the Tigers tallied three times in the last three minutes. Umland scored at 16:51, followed by Driscoll and Brady. Driscoll's was the Tigers' third successful power play of the night.

Marotta faced only 15 shots in the two periods he played. Dave Shea and Tony Manory split the third period, making 10 saves between them to preserve the shutout.

Harvard came into Jadwin Saturday night minus players like Joe Carrabino and Bob Ferry, who graduated last June, with a 3-9 mark. It made a game out of it for only part of the first half, and left 3-10.

The Tigers, who led by just 17-15 midway through the first period, blew the game open with a 20-point surge while the Crimson could manage just four. It was 44-25 at the intermission, and all over.

The second half Carril cleared his bench, giving some playing time to everyone. Five players scored in double figures — Williams leading with 16, followed by Scott, 12; Orlandini, 11, and Harnum and Thompson, 10 apiece. The 77 points were the most scored by the team this season.

Even better, the Tigers finally out-rebounded an opponent. They grabbed 33 caroms, another season high, five more than Harvard.

Obviously pleased with his team's progress, Carril commented after the game, "I've gotta go on the road recruiting, and it's a lot better going out when you're winning."

Dartmouth Record Intact. On Friday night, Dartmouth came as close as it ever has to breaking its 28-year drought at Princeton. The Big Green hasn't won here since Cappy Cappon was coach in the 1957-58 season.

That may change in the next year or two. The visitors, under second year coach Paul Cormier, have a young squad that should improve with experience.

They came very close to pulling this one out as it was, battling back in the second half after being down by seven at one point. Matching Princeton basket for basket down the stretch, the Big Green failed to do so with 24 seconds left when Eugene Sims could sink only one of two foul shots, leaving the Tigers ahead 47-46.

Bryan Randall grabbed the rebound, but lost the ball to John Thompson's quick hands, and fouled trying to get it back. Thompson sank two for a 49-46 lead, and after Dartmouth again climbed to within one, Bob Scrabis sank two more to put the contest out of reach, 51-48. A last-second basket by the visitors was meaningless.

Carril had reason to be happy with the play of at least one of his freshmen. Scrabis had all of his points in the second half, including four out of four under pressure from the foul line.

Williams followed his 27-point performance against Lafayette with 19 more, but he didn't get things going until the second half. He was no better than two for nine in the first 20 minutes, as Dartmouth squeezed out a 24-21 lead at the intermission.

But he was all business in the second, scoring 10 points in the first four minutes, as the Tigers went on a 12-2 spurt, and led 33-26. The visitors rallied at that point, and tied the contest at 35 apiece, setting up the usual nip and tuck battle down to the end that has become such a familiar part of Princeton games.

Carril Bests van Breda Kolff. A week ago Tuesday, Carril faced his longtime friend and Princeton's former coach, Butch van Breda Kolff, in a meeting between the Tigers and Lafayette. The Leopards had won a year ago, but this time the Orange and Black gained a small measure of revenge with a 62-49 triumph.

A lion's share of the credit for the victory goes to center Alan Williams, who poured in a career-high 27 points on superb

MOMENTS BEFORE THE FALL: Hun School 134-pounder Bryan White grimaces as Jeff Robinson of Princeton High applies pressure. Robinson's fall a few moments later in 4:44 from referee Barry Burtnette was one of three by the Little Tigers who lost the match, 41-18. The victory was Hun's first.

12 of 15 shooting, plus three for three from the line. Williams and Orlandini, who tallied 11, helped turn a 15-8 first-half deficit into a 19-15 lead as the Tigers scored 11 consecutive points.

Carril's men led at the half, 26-21, and slowly increased their margin from there. No one else had more than seven, (Belz, seven, Scott and Thompson, six apiece), but collectively the Tigers made 26 of 42 field goal attempts. That kind of accuracy, 62 per cent, will produce a victory for them almost every time.

Don't look for another matchup between Pete and Butch next year or anytime after that. Van Breda Kolff doesn't mind playing his old buddy, but Carril doesn't like it.

"If our matchup could draw crowds, excite people, it might be different," Carril commented. But two years in a row the crowds were nonexistent. (Attendance was about 1,200.) I won't schedule them. It would be an affront to our friendship."

Hun Wins 1st, PHS Loses Last Week in Wrestling

"It was a long time in coming, it was what we needed," observed Hun School wrestling coach Dave Faus last week, after his team had defeated Princeton High, 41-18, for its first win in five matches.

"We had a number of guys who came all the way through their matches for the first time in the lower weights. That's encouraging," commented PHS coach Lee Merrill.

Both schools then went on to lose matches on Saturday. Hun bowed to perennial prep school power, Blair Academy, 33-30, and PHS lost to Hillsborough, 42-30.

Hun (1-5) will oppose Wardlaw away on Thursday afternoon in what Faus predicted "will be a real close match," and on Saturday it will participate in a tri-meet with Trenton High and Hamilton. "I think we will be in both of those matches," said Faus.

The tri-meet will be held at Trenton High, starting at 11.

PHS (1-4) also has a good chance in its next two starts. The Little Tigers will travel to Trenton High this Wednesday evening and will be at Hopewell Valley in Pennington Saturday at noon.

"Trenton has a big squad," said Merrill. "I don't think they are all that strong, but they will still be pretty formidable for us. Hopewell has a thin squad so I'd say we have a good shot at both."

Winless Hopewell (0-5) was routed, 60-9, by Green Brook in its last match.

Hun hurt its chances against Blair, which was not wrestling its first team, when it had to forfeit the 147-pound and heavyweight matches and Joss Gross was disqualified when he was whistled for stalling four times in his 169-pound match. There was a double forfeit at 107.

"We've had a little turnover with some of the kids on the team and there has been some sickness," explained Faus. "We were missing two regulars."

Hun gained all its points on pins. Steve McNally, looking more impressive in each succeeding match, pinned in 52 seconds at 100 pounds; Andy Brandwein pinned in 1:12 at 121 pounds; and Nick Wofsy followed with the fastest pin of the match, a 22-second fall over Tony Brucia at 128 pounds.

Hun's Brian White followed with a pin in 3:42 at 134 pounds and Dave Glassberg (187) pinned his opponent in 3:14.

Hun captain Steve Wolf lost a close 10-8 decision in his 157-pound match. "It was a good match," said Faus. "He wrestled one of their better wrestlers."

Three Pins for PHS. Princeton High combined forfeits at 107 and Heavyweight plus three pins for its 30 points against Hillsborough.

One was a technical fall scored by Jeff Robinson, who ran up a 15-0 advantage over his 134-pound opponent Brian Bizzozo. Under a relatively new high school rule, any time a wrestler gains a 15-point advantage, the bout is automatically stopped. It was Princeton's first technical fall.

PHS captain Marco Cucchi pinned his opponent in 3:40 at 128 pounds and Adam Gormley (170) flattened Kurt DeRue in 1:41.

Andy Petrone was pinned by Somerset County champion Carl Kinahan in 53 seconds in their 114-pound match and Princeton's Neil Seltzer lost his first match when he got pinned with two seconds left in the first period in his 147-pound match.

Eddie Bing of PHS exited in 35 seconds. "He got caught on his back and never really got started," said Merrill.

For Hillsborough, the win was its first in five dual meets.

Hun Takes 16-0 Lead. Hun jumped to a 16-0 lead in its first meeting with visiting PHS Thursday when Dave Forrest decided Alex Fox, 12-1, McNally pinned Jim Green, Brandwein decided Andy Petrone, 12-3, and a tiring Nick Wofsy just managed to hold on and outlast Eddie Bing, 12-11. In a pre-season scrimmage, Wofsy had pinned Bing in 30 seconds. "There is no excuse for the way Wofsy wrestled," said Faus after the match but both he and Merrill agreed that Bing has really come on.

Marco Cucchi stopped Hun's string with a pin over Brad Carris in their 128-pound match.

Then after Robinson pinned Bryan White and Hun's Mike Sophocles handled Anthony Cucchi, 14-3, Seltzer pinned Dave Ross to narrow the score to 20-18 with four bouts left. Hun won all four, scoring pins in the last three. Outweighed 225 to 189, Hun's Glassberg pinned PHS heavyweight Ross Pratt in 36 seconds, Gross decked Dan Knoepfmacher in 1:31, and Wolf flattened Gormley in 1:33. Ali Sadrolhafari decided Gaylyn Woelk, 6-3, in their 157-pound match.

Girls Win, Boys Lose In Opening Swim Meets

"It turned out as expected. I expected the girls to win and the boys to have some difficulty," said Janet Jelliffe, first-year coach of the Princeton High boys and girls swim teams last week, after the girls had defeated Hightstown, 102-67, and the boys had lost to the Rams, 114-42.

Jelliffe, who coached the Community Park swim team in the summer and is a former aquatic director for Y teams in Westfield and Passaic/Clifton, said it was difficult to know how the Little Tigers would do the rest of the season after just one meet but added, "I think the kids are coming along."

Jelliffe offered she would know more about the Little Tiger prospects after a scheduled meet this week against Nottingham and two meets on Thursday in which the boys will oppose Trenton and the girls the George School. Like all PHS meets this season, they will be held away since Princeton High has no pool of its own.

The team practices whenever it can — which isn't very often, said Jelliffe — in the Princeton Y pool.

As expected, the PHS girls team, led by veteran Bridget Mahoney, the only senior on the team, overpowered Hightstown. Mahoney won the 200 free in 2:20.1 and the 100 back in 1:16.8.

Freshman Heather Tamm won the 100 free in 1:03.2 and the 200 IM in 2:53.7 and joined Amanda Schivell, Kate Ashley and Mahoney in capturing the 400 free relay.

Junior veteran Schivell won the 100 fly in 1:14.5 and combined with Suzanne Maman, Shelly Chu, and Peggy Bolster in winning the 200 medley relay in 2:23.6.

Other first place winners for PHS were Ashley in the 50 free (30.2) and Sarah Deffeyes in the 100 breast (1:23.8).

Hightstown finished 1-2 in the diving event and also won the 400 free, where Maman finished second. The Rams' Kelly Richmond won the event in 5:11.3.

In overwhelming the PHS boys team, Hightstown won every event and set school records in the 200 IM and 100 back in the process. The 400 free relay event was not held.

For PHS, John Cummings took a second in diving and 100 free and Pat Keran was second in the 50 free and third in the 200 free. Mike Keran and Victor Browning finished second and third in the 100 back event where Chris Wood set a new Hightstown school record of 1:08.2. The previous school mark set last year was 1:10.0.

PHS Girls 4-0 in Track After Dual Win Monday

The Princeton High School girls winter track team raised its record to 4-0 Monday with two victories in a tri-meet with Ewing and Hightstown.

PHS defeated Ewing, 52-24, getting firsts from Sarah Doig in the 1600, Sandra Tignor in the 3200, and Marie Mazzacuto in the shot put. PHS also won the high jump and the 1600 relay, while Ewing's Margaret Locke captured the 55 hurdles and 400.

Against Hightstown, Teresa DiPerna won the 55 and 800 races, Doig won the 1600 again in 5:35 and Tignor the 3200 in 12:28. PHS won the 1600 relay in 4:34.3 to the Rams' 4:50.7.

PHS opened its season last week by topping Lawrence, 58-22, and Notre Dame, 51-29.

In that tri-meet, Eva Klohn won the 800 and 1600 events, DiPerna the 400, and Karin Swartz the 3200 in 12:15. Sarah

Cason Replaces Panfile

In a move that should strengthen the football program overall, Craig Cason has been appointed head coach of freshman football at Princeton University.

Cason, who was Ron Rogerson's defensive tackle coach on the varsity last season, succeeds Ned Panfile, who resigned after five years as freshman coach.

During his tenure, Panfile had to balance his coaching duties with a fulltime job as a high school vice-principal in Manville.

In announcing Cason's appointment, Rogerson commented, "The value and importance of having a fulltime staff member leading the freshman team is extremely significant."

A 1982 graduate of Howard University, Cason served as an assistant offensive line coach under Rogerson at the University of Maine during the 1982 and '83 seasons. He moved on to Dartmouth in 1984, and came here a year later when Rogerson took over.

Billington captured the high jump.

The next outing for the girls will be a tri-meet Monday with Steinert and Hopewell.

Boys Triumph, Too. The PHS boys winter track team got off to an auspicious start last week when it defeated Notre Dame, 51-25, and defending Mercer County and CVC champion Lawrence, 49-25, in one of several meets held in the Lavino Fieldhouse on the Lawrenceville School campus.

Princeton's Nathaniel McVey-Finney, who led the Little Tigers to an undefeated season in cross country, continued his mastery in the distance races by capturing both the 1600 in 4:44 and the 3200 in 9:55. Teammate Sean Nyhan was second (by three seconds) in the 1600 and teammate Anthony Fernandez was second in the 3200.

Alan Caulk won the 800 in 2:08, 3 seconds ahead of Nyhan.

Tim Hannon of PHS won the high jump with a 6-0 effort, edging teammate Marshall Jensen who leaped 5-8 for second place. The Little Tigers also finished second in the 1600 relay behind Lawrence. Their next outing will be a tri-meet this Wednesday with Ewing and Hightstown.

PHS Girls Lose 2 More On Court for 1-5 Record

Leading 35-32 after three periods, the Princeton High girls basketball team failed to hold its lead Friday and went down to a 47-43 loss at the hand of West Windsor. The loss was the fourth straight for the Little Tigers after an opening win.

Dawn Sterling came off the bench to score nine points and grab 10 rebounds to trigger a fourth-period surge that saw WW outscore the visiting Little Tigers, 15-8. Dolly Chugh had 19 points and Rhonda Small 11 for the 5-3 victors.

Princeton was led again by its top two scorers, Tomi Morton and Tracy Hemingway. Morton pumped in 24 points to lead all scorers while Hemingway added 12.

Earlier in the week, McCorristin was twice as good as the Little Tigers as it placed four players in double figures for an easy 67-31 win — its sixth in seven games. The Iron Mikes led 39-19 at halftime.

Morton and Hemingway combined for 23 PHs points and Kelly Tahaney added five more. Dorothy Mayer was the top player for the victors with 12 points and nine rebounds.

Coach Joyce Jones' Little Tigers will next host Hightstown Friday at 8 and will oppose powerful Trenton High Tuesday afternoon in Trenton.

They were scheduled to play Lawrence High this week in a Valley Division league game.

Home Court Might Help 3-5 PDS Girls Basketball

A loser in five of its first eight games, including two of three this past week, the Princeton Day girls basketball team looked forward to playing its first game at home this week.

Last week the Panthers finished the last three of eight consecutive away games that began their season. They managed to beat Stuart, 50-49, last Wednesday, but sandwiched around that one victory were losses to Rutgers Prep, 22-12, and a 40-29 defeat by Newark Academy Friday.

The first home game was set to be played this past Tuesday against Pingry, the second on Wednesday against George. Then it's back on the road again next Wednesday at Peddie, a team PDS lost to by a wide margin in the finals of the Stuart Tournament in December.

On Friday in Livingston, PDS stayed close to Newark for the first half, and led by a point, 19-18 at the half. But the home team took control after the intermission, scoring 22, while the Blue and White could manage just 10. Catherine Barone's 16 points proved to be more than half her team's total; no one else had more than four.

Earlier in the week, the Panthers played two vastly different games, and wound up with a split. In the first contest after the Christmas break, the team came out against Rutgers Prep, determined to concentrate on improving its defense.

The defense looked good, holding Rutgers Prep to just 22 points, but along the way the Panthers forgot about their offense. It managed just 12 points, most of those in the final period. Barone had half of her team's total.

The next day against Stuart, PDS opened up its offense, took a big lead in the second period, but barely held on at the end for a 50-49 triumph. Ahead by just two, 8-6, at the end of the first quarter, PDS tallied 22 in the second period for a 30-15 halftime lead.

It was 40-26 at the end of the third period, but Stuart rallied strongly in the fourth and tied the count at 47 apiece with time running out. PDS scored the next three points, one coming on a foul shot by Doria Johnson, to make it 50-47.

Stuart had four foul shots after that, but could only make two, and came up one point short. Barone had a standout game with seven points, 18 rebounds and five assists. Michele Sternberg had 10 points and Carol Trippitelli, seven, but the scoring leader was Egyptian transfer student Lila El-Nofely.

Competition Gets Tougher For PDS Boys' Hockey

The competition gets more difficult for the Princeton Day boys' hockey team this week and next with games against Hill set for this Wednesday, Lawrenceville next Wednesday and Peddie the following Saturday.

Last week, the Panthers played three times and achieved a perfect split, beating Hightstown, 4-1, a week ago Tuesday, tying Seton Hall, 3-3, Thursday, and losing to Portledge School, 6-5. That left the Panthers with a 2-2-1 mark, pending the outcome of the Delbarton game.

The Portledge contest was quite even through the first periods, with the visitors matching PDS goal for goal. Jamie Knill opened the scoring in the first period, scoring an unassisted goal, but before time had run out Portledge had tied it 1-1.

Sophomore Cliff Hilpert put PDS ahead 2-1, assisted by Jon Bylin, but again the visitors answered with a goal. Later on Bylin's goal gave PDS a brief 3-2 lead, before Portledge made it 3-3.

Soon after the third period got underway, however, Portledge took control and scored three times, the last two coming just 30 seconds apart. This gave them a 6-3 lead with about five minutes left. Col Krueger brought the Panthers to within two a minute later, assisted by Cary Paik and Knill, and Bylin got his second, aided by Don Shaffer, with four minutes remaining, but PDS could not come up with another.

Coach Graham Cragg pulled his goalie, John DeRochi, with 1:58 remaining, but to no avail. DeRochi played a decent game, stopping 31 of the 37 shots he faced.

Last Thursday's tie with Seton Hall was gratifying, because the Panthers had to rally from a two-goal deficit in the third period to draw even. The visitors took a 2-1 edge into the final 15 minutes, and increased that to 3-1 about midway through the period.

Shortly thereafter Knill, assisted by Krueger, scored to make it 3-2. Then the Panthers had to survive a two-man down situation, but managed to kill the double penalties without allowing the visitors another goal.

With about two minutes remaining, Matt Lustig got the tying goal. Bylin and Hilpert picked up assists. Cragg noted that his team might have won this game, as PDS hit the post on two other occasions, and had several scrambles in front of the net, but could not push the puck in.

DeRochi made 29 saves in this evenly-matched contest.

Two days earlier, in Mercer County rink, PDS found itself far superior to Hightstown, but could not take advantage of numerous opportunities to score more goals. "We had about 40 shots during the game," Cragg noted, "but only 20 or so were on net."

Still, the Blue and White opened a three-goal lead in the first period. It started slowly in the second, giving up a goal to Hightstown in the first minute, but did not allow another. The Panthers added a fourth score in the final period. Sam Lambert, Paik, Bylin and Lustig tallied for Princeton Day. DeRochi had a slow day in the nets, as only four or five shots came his way.

Delbarton Blanks PDS 6-0 in Hockey Monday

Scoring more in every period, Delbarton's unbeaten hockey team rolled over Princeton Day, 6-0, in hockey Monday afternoon.

The Green Wave came in waves at goalie John DeRochi, firing 40 shots on net. It scored once in the first, twice in the second and three times in the third. Delbarton has now won 12 consecutive contests.

PDS, which was blanked for the second time this season, fell to 2-3-1.

teacher and not necessarily a music teacher.

Other Musical Endeavors. Chamber music players may also be found in a wide range of other music endeavors. Barbara Sands, for instance, has spent the past several years in New York as editor of the quarterly magazine published by Chamber Music America, an organization founded to help professional and amateur musicians.

Others are active in any number of area music groups. Rogers Woolston, a double-bass player who gets called on to play Schubert's Trout Quintet as many as six times a year but is never a regular, is active in the Princeton Music Club, Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs, Princeton Community Orchestra, Portia Sonnenfeld's Chamber Symphony, Joe Kovacs' Collegium Musicum, and Westminster Choir College.

Barbara Sue White, viola, has turned string quartet playing into a paying proposition. Gathering up talented University students and others who are also eager to make a little money out of their music-making, she books her Princeton String Quartet "for joyous occasions" like wedding receptions.

Might Have Been Professional. Some of Princeton's amateur violinists/viola players were headed toward careers as professional musicians before they made a career switch. As a teenager, Curt Carlson played in the violin section of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra. He found it to be not as positive an experience as he had enjoyed as concert master of the youth orchestra and other groups in which he played, partly, he says, "because you couldn't hear what you or others were playing and it was a job, in which you had to learn a great deal of music very quickly."

He believes he made a "fortuitous choice" to become a scientist instead and says he "enjoys immensely" playing chamber music as a part-time amateur. "There is something wonderful about playing with four or five people on string instruments," he says, "a magical thing that you can't replicate elsewhere."

Playing chamber music has its social element. "Chamber music players are always interested in meeting others," notes Anne Florey. "Other people will look at a piece of music differently, and that is interesting. And the music is so exquisite that sharing it is a joy in itself."

"It's particularly fun if there are foreigners present, who can't speak the language well but can play an instrument." For the traveler, there is a directory of Amateur Chamber Music Players, like a bed-and-breakfast listing, published in different sections of this country as well as abroad. Musicians grade themselves as to ability and allow a star to be put beside their name if they are offering to have the visitor stay in their home as well.

There is no limit to age, Mrs. Florey points out. Old and young alike are equally welcome, and age tends to be forgotten in the shared passion of making music. Between quartets, the talk will turn to sharing information about instruments, what make and how old, and where to have cracks glued or bows re-haired.

And there are enough musical masterpieces, Curt Carlson believes, for a lifetime

Let's Put It Behind Us Says Marv of 50-49 Loss

It was more than painful; it was excruciating.

The dictionary defines excruciating as "intensely painful." No word can better describe the feeling of the Princeton High School basketball team following its 50-49 loss Friday in a key league battle with visiting West Windsor.

Intensely painful because it was a game which PHS had apparently lost but was theirs to win in the final seconds following a stirring comeback. It never happened.

"We had a chance to win; we had the last two shots but nothing happened. We rimmed them both," said PHS coach Marv Trotman.

Now the question is can the Little Tigers put the disappointment behind them and bounce back? "I would hope so," said Trotman this week. "It was a tough game to lose but we have got to put it behind us and go on."

The loss to West Windsor coupled with a 84-68 setback to McCristin two days earlier has left the Little Tigers all even in league play at 2-2 and 3-3 overall. There is no cushion left.

PHS was scheduled to oppose Lawrence High, which has lost three in a row after winning its first five, this week and will be at Hightstown Friday for an 8 p.m. contest. "We've got to win both these games as best we can to stay in contention," said Trotman.

Trenton Here Tuesday. Tuesday evening at 8 PHS will host powerful Trenton High, which joined the Colonial Valley Conference this season. The Tornadoes were supposed to laugh their way past CVC opponents but it hasn't happened that way. Not yet at least. The once-beaten Tornadoes have had to struggle for their league wins.

"I think they can be beaten. They're not unbeatable," Trotman maintained.

Although it has been a number of years since PHS has played Trenton in a regular season game, the Blue and White faced THS last year in the finals of the Mercer County Tournament. After upsetting both Lawrenceville and Peddie in the first two rounds to advance to the finals, a tired Little Tiger team was blown away by Trenton, 99-57, in the championship game. "I kind of feel we owe them something," smiled Trotman.

The next day, PHS will oppose a powerful Burlington Township quintet on the road. Trenton and Burlington back-to-back: that is excruciating scheduling.

A Must Game. The game with West Windsor was a must game for both teams. PHS had split with the Pirates in two games last year in going on to capture its first Valley Division CVC crown, edging out the Pirates.

It had hoped to do it again. The Pirates, led by their 1,000-point scorer, Billy Royal, entered the PHS gym with a 6-1 record.

of music-making. Everyone brings his or her part to a string quartet session, but the host or hostess also has scores to share.

Princeton is unique, David Southgate thinks, in the number and quality of its amateur musicians, whom he enjoys for their "enthusiasm and personal pleasantness." Mr. Carlson puts it differently. There is more string quartet playing here, as well as more scientists, because Princeton has "more over-educated people who have a propensity for solitary hard work — which suits both activities."

The Pirates seemed to have caged the Little Tigers when they opened up a 48-37 lead with 6:30 left to play in the game. But over the next six minutes, spurred on by the roar of the home crowd, the following happened: PHS scored 10 unanswered points to slice West Windsor's lead to 48-47 with 2:12 remaining.

In the spurt, Pat McKellar hit a jumper, Rob Bosley scored his only two baskets of the game, Marv Trotman Jr. dunked the ball and Peter Paris tallied from the top of the key.

Midway in the PHS run, Trotman Sr. was hit with a two-shot technical foul when he protested — too much — a blocked shot foul called on Tim Rumer. The Pirates, however, failed to take advantage as Jay Thompson and Tom Hurst missed all four attempts.

As the game wound down amid the pandemonium and mounting pressure, WW finally broke its scoring drought when Hurst converted two foul shots with 2:12 left to play.

On two more occasions, WW missed the front end of a 1-and-1 and when Paris hit a jumper off an assist from Trotman, the Blue and White trailed 50-49 with 47 seconds left.

The Pirates turned the ball over when Dave Arendas slipped trying to field a length of the court pass and was called for a walk. PHS called its last time out with 29 ticks left on the clock.

PHS wanted to get the ball into Trotman or Paris, both of whom had scored 16 points to lead the PHS attack, but neither one ever got to touch the ball. "We didn't get the shot we wanted," agreed Trotman.

With five seconds left, Mike Riddick's jumper bounded off the glass and Royal was fouled when he grabbed the rebound.

Princeton got one last chance when Royal missed the 1-and-1 and Bosley grabbed the rebound. Bosley tossed to Trotman whose jumper at the buzzer bounced off the rim.

WW coach Rolla Warner summed up the emotion-filled game when he observed, "This is the kind of game you have to win if you're going to be a championship team. A game like this, if you lose, it could have a devastating effect."

Tom Hurst of WW led all scorers with 20 points, while Royal finished with 14 and Jay Thompson had 10.

Rumer, who had an outstanding game for the Little Tigers under the boards, contributed eight points and teammates Pat McKellar and Bosley added four each.

Earlier in the week, a ball-hawking McCristin team harassed Princeton into a 84-68 defeat.

The Iron Mikes, who like to pressure their opponents from the beginning of the game to the end, either stole the ball or forced a turnover 19 times in the first half, converting the turnovers into 28 points. In addition they were a torrid 19 of 21 from the free throw line in the first half.

Trotman, who had a double technical foul whistled against him in the first half, labeled the officiating of Dick Lee and Dick Lettiere "disgusting" and "a mockery."

The Little Tigers connected on 57 percent of their shots from the court but were never really in the game.

They were led in shooting by Trotman Jr. who had 23 points and by Rumer and Riddick, who contributed 13 each — high for the season for Riddick. Rob Bosley also fashioned his night, tossing in ten points.
